Drop In Loup River Flow Alarms Officials

Columbus (UPI)—A meeting was scheduled here Wednesday noon to discuss what city and Loup River Public Power District officials described as an alarming drop in the flow of water in the Loup River.

The Loup was flowing past Genoa at 675 feet per second Tuesday, the lowest figure on record for this early in the summer. The drop in the flow coincides with record demands on power supplies because of the expanded use of air conditioning equipment.

The Loup River Power District uses water from the river to help generate power for the integrated Nebraska Public Power System.

Columbus Mayor Cleo Kuntzman called the Wednesday meeting. He invited members of the industrial and the civic affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce and other local civic organizations.

Dropping Rapidly

Kuntzman said the flow in the river has been dropping at the rate of 100 to 200 second feet per day. The 675 second feet reported Tuesday was compared with 2,400 second feet July 1, 1956, and 1,700 second feet July 1, 1955. In 1956, the river flow had dropped back to 350 second feet at the end of July and by the end of July, 1955, it had fallen to 500 second feet.

Tom Eason, North Bend, president of the Lower Loup-Platte Water Association, said a similar drop this year would result in a dry river.

"We have preached continually that we would be faced with a dried up Loup River, added to a dry Platte River, when the up-stream irrigation projects were completed," Eason said.

Happening Earlier

"Now we find that we are facing a dry river long before we predicted, even though the new North Loup project hasn't been built and the Farwell project is only irrigating a small part of the land it eventually will."

Eason said the association has tried to emphasize that "we have gone from one of the most stable rivers in the world to a dry one in just a few years."

"We must have an over-all river plan that will include on-stream storage of waters," he said.

"It is time for people in this area to make their voices heard in Lincoln and Washington."

The lack of Loup water was alarming to Loup River Public Power District officials because of increased demands for power. The Nebraska Public Power System set a new record in output last Friday, and topped it again Monday when 553,800 kilowatts of power were used.

"We expect record power loads all summer," John Preston, manager of the Loup district, said. "We hope there will be enough water to operate in the most efficient manner at all times, but the outlook is not favorable."

The Loup fills Lake Babcock and Lake North near here. They form the water supply to operate the power generators.

Budget Is Hiked $1.2 Million

... COMMITTEE FINISHES WORK

By BETTY PERSON

The Budget Committee added another $1.2 million to the state's 1963-65 appropriations bill Tuesday and wound up its deliberations for this session of the Legislature — exactly 6 months from the day its work first began.

The major share of the funds added Tuesday—$920,000—is contingent upon final passage of LB478, the driver education bill.

Another large portion of the new addition went to a $200,000 increase in the general fund appropriation of the University of Nebraska to compensate for an error in the estimate of federal funds the institution will receive in the new biennium.

Misunderstood Legislative Fiscal Analyst John Quigley said he had misunderstood the University's estimate of federal funds and had added $200,000 to that account.

NU's budget will remain at the same $50.9 million figure, but the general fund share has now been increased from $31.4 million to $31.6 million.

Another $33,000 was added to the Department of Institutions to correct a miscalculation in fund estimates.

The committee also voted to increase the salary of Nebraska Historical Society Director W. D. Aeschbacher to $13,500 annually for the coming biennium. His present salary is $10,200, and the committee previously had planned to raise it to $10,500 for 1963-64, and to $10,800 in 1964-65.

Offered Another Job The decision to hike the increase came after the committee was advised that Aeschbacher has been offered the post of director of the Eisenhower Museum at Abilene, Kan., at an annual salary of about $14,500.

The committee specified that the salary increase was for Aeschbacher alone, and not for his successor should the director decide to leave.

A total of $10,000 was added to the Department of Education budget for special education services for deaf and blind.

A total of $22,820 was added for the Purchasing Department to allow additional staff and equipment, and $3,325 was added for printing costs for the Supreme Court.

The governor's budget was increased $1,000 for participation in the Midwest Governor's Conference at Omaha this fall.

Ball Park Press Box Destroyed

Fire destroyed the press box on top of the Grandstand at Sherman Field, 2nd and South, late Tuesday night. Three hose companies and a ladder company of the Lincoln fire department kept the blaze from spreading to the rest of the wood-and-metal structure.

The fire was reported at 11:19 p.m., some 30 minutes after a Cornhusker Legion League double-header between the Lincoln Optimists and Grand Island.

The press box was a total loss, but Asst. Fire Chief Curtis Kadlick said no estimate of the damage could be made until Wednesday morning.

Chief Kadlick said fire inspectors will have to determine the cause of the fire Wednesday. He said it could have been caused by faulty wiring, a discarded cigarette, or a number of other causes.

He said he did not think arson a likely possibility.

In other action, the committee agreed to let the Department of Institutions raise salaries according to its own system providing the adjustments do not exceed the amount provided in the budget. The committee had set a 3.5% limit for any one employee.

4 HELD AS SPIES

Red Intelligence Ring Smashed

Washington (UPI)—FBI agents striking in New York and Washington arrested 4 persons Tuesday and smashed a Russian spy ring that had been supplying U.S. military secrets to the Soviet Union for the last 6 years.

Two other Russians identified by the FBI as conspirators already have left the United States. They had worked at the United Nations but were described in the FBI complaint as "officers of the GRU, Soviet military intelligence."

Those arrested were married couples. One of the men was a Russian now working as a United Nations official and the other was a "John Doe" who took the name of a real Catholic priest to mask his true identity.

A government official, commenting on the magnitude of the ring, said "This is a big one."

It was the second Soviet espionage case disclosed by the United States in two days and involved all the traditional trappings of spies — secret messages left at "drop points," codes, ciphers and secret writings.

A late evening announcement by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the 6 involved were conspirators in a plot to furnish the Soviet Union with information about U.S. military installations, troop movements, shipping and military waterfront facilities. In addition it was understood the group tried to obtain information about U.S. intercontinental ballistic missile sites.

Those arrested in New York were Ivan Dmitrievich Egorov, 41, and his wife Aleksandria, 39. Egorov is a personnel officer in the United Nations secretariat. He formerly served at Soviet embassy posts in India and Canada.

According to the FBI, they put up a fight when agents came to arrest them. Mrs. Egorov had to be carried out of the building.

Those seized in Washington were known to the FBI as Robert Keistutis Balch and his wife, who called herself Joy Ann Garber before her marriage to Balch. The real Robert Balch is a Catholic priest and the real Joy Ann Garber is a Norwalk, Conn., housewife.

A complaint filed by the FBI said the Balches assumed the identities of the two living Americans starting some time before 1959. The real Robert Balch and the real Joy Ann Garber were not aware until Tuesday that the other persons had been using their names.

Naples Gives Warm Welcome Before Kennedy Returns Home

Naples, Italy (UPI)—President Kennedy rode smiling Tuesday night through streets lined by a half million cheering Neapolitans then returned home to Washington from a 10-day European tour designed to strengthen the Atlantic community.

The President's big silver and blue Air Force jet landed at Andrews AFB at 1:39 a.m. EDT. It was the windup of one of the busiest days on the tour that had taken him to Bonn and the Berlin Wall, to his ancestral home in Ireland, to talk with British Prime Minister Macmillan and then to Italy.

The first Roman Catholic President of the United States was received at the Vatican Tuesday morning by Pope Paul VI, the new supreme ruler of the Roman Catholic Church. The Pope praised Kennedy's efforts to end racial discrimination in the United States and to promote world peace.

Kennedy and President Antonio Segni issued in Rome a joint communiqué in which Italy expressed a favorable attitude toward participating in studies on the possible development of a NATO multilateral nuclear fleet, a U.S.-proposed project that has had fair sailing so far only in the United States and West Germany.

The communiqué reflected the Italian government's refusal to accept De Gaulle's line that Western Europe should reduce American influence in its affairs.

The communiqué was specific on that point. It said the Italian leaders "found themselves in agreement with President Kennedy on the necessity that European unity be achieved within the framework of the hoped-for interdependence between the United States and Europe."

Two City Judges Reject Plan To Move Quarters

By VIRGIL FALLOON

Lincoln's Municipal Court

will probably remain in its 10th and R quarters until a city-county building is built.

Mayor Dean Petersen said

Tuesday the two municipal judges have rejected a city proposal to move the court into larger quarters in the old Union Insurance Co. building at 11th and M.

"The judges don't think the building would be suitable," he said. "They want to stay where they are."

"Inadequate"

Earlier this year, Judge John Jacobson advised the City Council that the present courtrooms in the Municipal Building at 10th and R were "completely inadequate."

In line with an American Bar Association study of courtroom conditions, the city has proposed moving the court temporarily into remodeled quarters in the vacant 11th and M building.

Mayor Petersen said a preliminary study showed two large courtrooms and related offices could be "remodeled" in the Union building for under $10,000. It is centrally air-conditioned and removed from traffic congestion.

He said the estimated cost of an addition to the Municipal Building or extensive remodeling for larger court facilities would be excessive in comparison to the resulting benefits.

Unless the judges reconsider the city proposal, the mayor indicated the council's concurring decision is to leave the courtrooms where they are.

No Funds Proposed

The mayor said no funds are proposed in his upcoming budget recommendations for any extensive remodeling of the Municipal Building.

Mayor Petersen, who has

"hopes" a city-county building proposal can go on the ballot next spring, said the courtroom situation will probably stay in status quo until then and in line with the court's wishes.

8 Steel Casting Industry Firms Indicted

Price Fixing Is Charged

New York (P) — The federal government charged its price-fixing in steel products Tuesday, with an indictment against 8 firms in the $75 million a year steel castings industry.

Nine executives of the companies were named in the indictment, including two who were fined last year for price fixing of steel forgings.

The Justice Department charged that the 8 firms launched a conspiracy in 1956 to fix prices of steel castings and that the scheme continued until at least 1961.

Met Monthly

The indictment said executives of the firms met monthly in hotels or clubs in New York, Pittsburgh and Absecon, N.J., to agree on general price increases, catalogue prices and exchange information on identical prices to be quoted to customers.

As a result, the government claimed, steel castings prices were held at noncompetitive levels and buyers were deprived of the benefits of free competition. The castings are widely used in the construction, ship building, petroleum and mining industries.

If convicted, the individual defendants could receive a year each in prison and they and their companies could be fined up to $50,000 each. Arraignment on the charges was put off until later this month.

The firms named as defendants were said by the government to control 80% of the nation's sales of steel castings. They are Bethlehem Steel, Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp., Blaw-Knox Co., Erie Forge and Steel Corp., Textron Inc., General Steel Industries Inc., Birdsboro Corp. and the Penn Steel Castings Co.

Bethlehem and Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton were indicted April 2 on charges of conspiring to fix prices on train wheels and other steel products. Bethlehem and Erie Forge were indicted last year on charges of fixing prices on steel forgings.

Individual defendants in the latest indictment were Erle Gurney of Bethlehem, Sylvester J. Moran and Benjamin P. Hammond of Blaw-Knox, Emil Lang of Erie Forge, Thomas E. Dorsey and Clyde L. Hassell of Textron's Pittsburgh Steel Foundry, Howard F. Park Jr. of General Steel, G. Clymer Brooke of Birdsboro, and Alvin M. Andorn of Penn Steel.

Plead No Contest

Lang was fined $10,000 and Gurney $7,500 last Oct. 25 in the price fixing of steel forgings. They had pleaded no contest—thus accepting the penalties without formally admitting any guilt.

Textron said that Dorsey, as president of Pittsburgh Steel Foundry last January, a company spokesman added:

"In connection with the charge that Pittsburgh Steel Foundry, a Textron company, conspired to fix the price of steel castings, Textron policy has always been to require strict compliance with the antitrust laws by all our companies. We are not aware of any facts indicating violation by officials of the Pittsburgh Steel Foundry Co."

"Until our investigation is complete, we will not be in a position to comment further."

At Bethlehem, a spokesman for Bethlehem Steel said "we have not yet seen a copy of the indictment and until then we will have to reserve comment."

Newsmen Appraise JFK Trip

(EDITOR'S NOTE—President Kennedy went on his tour of West Germany, Britain and Italy with the chief aim of repairing a western alliance rift caused by the tendency toward separation of President Charles de Gaulle of France. Did he succeed? Here are the appraisals of Associated Press correspondents stationed in the capitals involved.)

Britain

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
London (P)—President Kennedy failed to convince the British of one of the key factors he feels is necessary for stronger western unity—the need for a mixed-crew nuclear fleet—designed to associate Europeans with a nuclear deterrent.

An unenthusiastic Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said neither yes nor no but agreed only to discuss the U.S. plan along with other ideas that might achieve the same purpose. To some extent this seems to assign the scheme to the limbo.

On the east-west front, Kennedy repeated his concept of a "peace strategy" for the ready ears of Premier Khrushchev. He probably aimed at strengthening the Soviet leader's hand for Friday's crucial Chinese-Soviet political confrontation.

To give that "peace strategy" coherent form Kennedy and Macmillan spelled out the orders their special envoys will take to Moscow for a new effort to negotiate a nuclear test ban treaty. The orders were both flexible and broad to allow other topics to be discussed and this pleased Macmillan whose shaky leadership would be strengthened if the Moscow talks ease the way toward a Big Three summit meeting soon.

West Germany

By CARL HARTMAN
Bonn (P)—President Kennedy's main accomplishment in West Germany, where he was given a resounding, popular welcome, was to strengthen West German confidence in the American commitment to Europe. President Charles de Gaulle had spread the word that the United States may one day pull out.

President Kennedy sharply contradicted this. And in Frankfurt he said clearly that he would risk the atomic destruction of American cities to defend western Europe. While commanding the President's program as "a little something De Gaulle has not done—and repeated the American commitment there. It is not really dangerous to cross communist territory and visit West Berlin. Thousands of people do it every day. But it does make a gesture that has an air of adventure to it, and it impressed people.

Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder told Ruhr industrialists plainly that there was no doubt the United States would stay in Europe because it was clearly in the interest of the United States.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told the Associated Press in an interview that he does not believe other NATO nations will follow the example of France in refusing to join the international nuclear fleet proposed by the United States.

Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte, obviously talking for De Gaulle, acidly commented that France had faith in Kennedy but felt it could not depend on the same attitude by his successor or successors.

Here, in brief, was De Gaulle telling Kennedy that his appeals and assurances had not changed De Gaulle's go-it-along policy and were not likely to.

Thus Kennedy's trip and his forthright pledges of military defense of Europe actually drove France farther away from the close alliance ties Kennedy urged throughout the trip.

As for French man-in-the-street, the Kennedy visit left him cold, as did the fact that Kennedy was not invited to come to France.

Likely prognosis: De Gaulle will continue his plans for independent nuclear force, looser ties with NATO, greater independence from the influence of the United States and greater voice in continental policy for France.

Italy

By GERALD MILLER
Rome (P)—President Kennedy's trip to Italy had a double-barreled effect: it dramatized for Italians the genuinely intimate regard this nation has for the United States, where so many millions of Italians in the past found homes and a new way of life.

The visit got across to government and political leaders with whom Kennedy met the point of his challenge to President de Gaulle.

In this respect, however, Kennedy's effectiveness was prior limited by the political situation in Italy today.

Italy has only an interim government with a limited objective of carrying on until a workable majority government alliance capable of forging full-fledged policies emerges from the current political confusion.

Kennedy was aware of this when he came. Yet in his talks with President Antonio Segni and Premier Giovanni Leone he clearly got from them assurances of support as strong as they were able to give in the present situation.

The relatively mild turnout he received from the people of Rome did not hide the underlying warmth for the chief executive of the United States.

NAACP Requests Wider Legislation

Chicago (P)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) requested Monday federal legislation to virtually eliminate all barriers to integration. It also announced plans for a series of nationwide demonstrations to rally support for its proposals.

The demonstrations will culminate with a giant national civil rights legislative convention in Washington, D.C., Aug. 6-8.

NAACP delegates and their leaders refused, even privately, to concede that their proposals—which go far beyond those recently sent to Congress by President Kennedy—had little chance of passage.

Minimal Demands

"They must be adopted," said Robert L. Carter, NAACP general counsel. "Those are our minimal demands." Carter introduced the resolution embodying the legislative program to the 54th annual NAACP Convention.

Negro leaders gathered here refused to discuss what action they would take—or what Negro reaction might be—if a strong civil rights program is not adopted by this session of Congress. The resolution, adopted unanimously by some 2,000 cheering, clapping delegates, called President's civil rights proposals "inadequate to meet the minimum needs of the existing situation."

While commanding the President's program as "a step toward discharging the moral obligation of our federal government to its Negro citizens" the resolution urged these additional measures:

1. Establishment of a Fair Employment Practices Commission with the right to subpoena witnesses and evidence, and the legal teeth to enforce its decrees.

2. Extension of the attorney general's authority to initiate court suits to include any area of civil rights. (President Kennedy has proposed that the attorney general be given the power to initiate court action only in school desegregation cases.)

3. Provide for legal sanctions against labor unions that practice discrimination.

Demonstrations

The resolution outlined a program of massive public demonstrations beginning with local civil rights rallies in the latter part of July "for the purpose of mobilizing local grass-roots support."

The August Washington convention was planned despite warnings by some congressional leaders that public demonstrations in the nation's capital could jeopardize adoption of any civil rights legislation.

President Kennedy sharply contradicted this. And in Frankfurt he said clearly that he would risk the atomic destruction of American cities to defend western Europe.

Then he went to West Berlin where he was welcomed as "a

12,000 Army Draft Quota Scheduled For September

Washington (P)—An Army draft quota of 12,000 men for September, the same as for August, was announced Tuesday by the Defense Department.

The call is intended to help fill the Army's estimated requirement of 23,700 for September and maintain current strength.

The June quota was down to 4,000, but was boosted to 7,000 for the current month.

The September levy will bring the total inductees since September 1950 to 2,845,450.

Nik Would 'Go Along' On N-Ban'

Berlin (P)—Premier Khrushchev told a cheering East German audience Tuesday that in exchange for a non-aggression pact with the West, he would be willing to go along with the United States and Britain on ending nuclear tests in space, in the atmosphere and under water.

Khrushchev led into his offer by calling President Kennedy's speeches in Berlin and West Germany last week "a dangerous development."

Khrushchev spoke in advance of talks on a nuclear test ban scheduled to start in Moscow with U.S. and British negotiators July 15.

He deliberately left underground tests out of his proposal, and appeared to write off an agreement on this as impossible.

Khrushchev appeared to be making a new package offer to the West, but the Soviet leader himself said he had made the partial ban proposal before. A suggestion of this was given by British Labor Party leader Harold Wilson on his recent trip to Moscow.

After Kremlin talks with Khrushchev, Wilson said he felt the best hope was for a limited test ban which would exclude underground nuclear tests. The West contends on-site inspection is necessary to guard against cheating with underground tests and has insisted the Soviet Union permit up to 7 inspections a year.

'Not Necessary'

Khrushchev maintains no such inspections are necessary but offered up to 3 on-site inspections. However, he has said he will not go any farther.

To the East Germans, Khrushchev said of a limited test ban accord:

"We have made this proposal before, but the Western powers frustrated an agreement advancing supplementary conditions which envisage large-scale inspection of our territory."

If the non-aggression partial ban proposal were accepted, said Khrushchev, "the question of inspection does not any longer arise, since the Western powers declared that no inspections whatever are needed to check the fulfillment by the states of their commitments to stop nuclear tests in the atmosphere, in outer space and under water."

Did Propose Ban

The Russians did propose in November, 1961, a ban on all but underwater tests, providing the West would accept an un-inspected moratorium on underground testing. The West refused the condition. Thereafter the Russians insisted on an all-or-nothing ban.

Now Khrushchev appears to be revising his offer, this time with a new condition attached.

Diplomatic sources said the West might be listening with interest to the proposal in this form.

First Four Hawksworth Scholars Are Revealed

Four entering freshmen at the University of Nebraska who ranked among the top 100 of Nebraska's 1963 graduating high school seniors were announced Tuesday as the first recipients of the newly established Hawksworth Scholarships.

Tied to the 4-year Regents Scholarships, the awards will give these undergraduate students more than $4,000 for their 4 years of study in the College of Engineering and Architecture:

—David Hood of Chadron, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hood. A member of the second team of the 1963 Regents' All-State Team, he is interested in electrical engineering and a first-class radiotelephone license from the FCC. He is an officer of the Pine Ridge Amateur Radio Club and graduate of Chadron High School.

—James C. Johnson of Omaha, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carter V. Johnson. A 1963 graduate of Westside High School, he was a member of his school's mathematics, Key, and International Clubs and received a certificate of award in physics. He will major in physics and engineering.

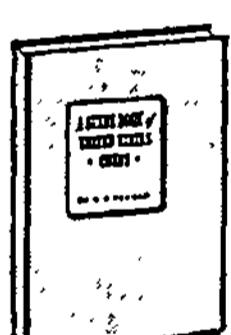

—Robert E. Kapustka of Elkhorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel P. Kapustka. A graduate of Ord High School, he was president of the student council and a member of band, chorus, glee club, science club, and track team. He will major in electrical engineering.

—Robert Surber of Omaha, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Surber. A 1963 graduate of Creighton Prep, he is a first-team member of the Regents' All-State Team. He was a member of the National Honor Society and recipient of the Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science Award Medal.

The Scholarships are supported from the income of a $380,000 fund, bequeathed to the University of Nebraska in addition to the 4 freshman awards, he said. The Fund also will provide annually 4 sophomore, 4 junior and three senior scholarships, a $2,000 graduate fellowship, and $2,000 in grants-in-aid for use by the college's Scholarship Committee. The annual income from the Hawksworth fund is estimated at approximately $16,000.

Professor Blackman said that later this summer the scholarship committee will announce the additional upperclassman Hawksworth Scholars and a Hawksworth Fellow.

8 Steel Casting Industry Firms Indicted

Price Fixing Is Charged

New York (P) — The federal government renewed its charges of price-fixing in steel products Tuesday, with an indictment against 8 firms in the $75 million a year steel castings industry.

Nine executives of the companies were named in the indictment, including two who were fined last year for price fixing of steel forgings.

The Justice Department charged that the 8 firms launched a conspiracy in 1956 to fix prices of steel castings and that the scheme continued until at least 1961.

Met Monthly

The indictment said executives of the firms met monthly in hotels or clubs in New York, Pittsburgh and Absecon, N.J., to agree on general price increases, catalogue prices and exchange information on identical prices to be quoted to customers.

As a result, the government claimed, steel castings prices were held at noncompetitive levels and buyers were deprived of the benefits of free competition. The castings are widely used in the construction, ship building, petroleum and mining industries.

If convicted, the individual defendants could receive a year each in prison and they and their companies could be fined up to $50,000 each. Arraignment on the charges was put off until later this month.

The firms named as defendants were said by the government to control 80% of the nation's sales of steel castings. They are Bethlehem Steel, Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corp., Blaw-Knox Co., Erie Forge and Steel Corp., Textron Inc., General Steel Industries Inc., Birdsboro Corp. and the Penn Steel Castings Co.

Bethlehem and Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton were indicted April 2 on charges of conspiring to fix prices on train wheels and other steel products. Bethlehem and Erie Forge were indicted last year on charges of fixing prices on steel forgings.

Individual defendants in the latest indictment were Erb Gurney of Bethlehem, Sylvester J. Moran and Benjamin P. Hammond of Blaw-Knox, Emil Lang of Erie Forge, Thomas F. Dorsey and Clyde L. Hassell of Textron's Pittsburgh Steel Foundry, Howard F. Park Jr. of General Steel, G. Clymer Brooke of Birdsboro, and Alvin M. Andorn of Penn Steel.

Plead No Contest

Lang was fined $10,000 and Gurney $7,500 last Oct. 25 in the price fixing of steel forgings. They had pleaded no contest—thus accepting the penalties without formally admitting any guilt.

Textron said that Dorsey, as president of Pittsburgh Steel Foundry last January, A company spokesman added:

"In connection with the charge that Pittsburgh Steel Foundry, a Textron company, conspired to fix the price of steel castings, Textron policy has always been to require strict compliance with the antitrust laws by all our companies. We are not aware of any facts indicating violation by officials of the Pittsburgh Steel Foundry Co."

"Until our investigation is complete, we will not be in a position to comment further."

At Bethlehem, a spokesman for Bethlehem Steel said "we have not yet seen a copy of the indictment and until then we will have to reserve comment."

U.S. Pilot Dies In Viet Nam Crash

Saigon, Viet Nam (P) — An American Army pilot officer was killed Monday on a lonely airstrip in South Viet Nam's central highlands when a light utility plane he was flying crashed on takeoff.

An American military spokesman said the co-pilot of the Otter aircraft and 6 American passengers the plane was carrying were slightly injured. The crash occurred at Mang Buk Airfield in Kontum Province. The pilot was the 8th American to die in Viet Nam. His name was withheld.

Newsmen Appraise JFK Trip

Britain

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

London (P)—President Kennedy failed to convince the British of one of the key factors he feels is necessary for stronger western unity—the need for a mixed-crew nuclear fleet—designed to associate Europeans with a nuclear price on steel forgings.

An unenthusiastic Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said neither yes nor no but agreed only to discuss the pet U.S. plan along with other ideas that might achieve the same purpose. To some extent this seems to assign the scheme to the limbo.

On the east-west front, Kennedy repeated his concept of a "peace strategy" for the ready ears of Premier Khrushchev. He probably aimed at strengthening the Soviet leader's hand for Friday's crucial Chinese-Soviet political conference.

To give that "peace strategy" coherent form Kennedy and Macmillan spelled out the orders their special envoys will take to Moscow for a new effort to negotiate a nuclear test ban treaty. The orders were both flexible and broad to allow other topics to be discussed and this pleased Macmillan whose shaky leadership would be strengthened if the Moscow talks ease the way toward a Big Three summit meeting soon.

West Germany

By CARL HARTMAN

Bonn (P)—President Kennedy's main accomplishment in West Germany, where he was given a resounding, popular welcome, was to strengthen West German confidence in the American commitment to Europe. President Charles de Gaulle had spread the word that the United States may do one pull out.

President Kennedy sharply contradicted this. And in Frankfurt he said clearly that he would risk the atomic destruction of American cities to defend western Europe. While commanding the President's program as "a lin—something De Gaulle has not done—and repeated the American commitment there. It is not really dangerous to cross communist territory and visit West Berlin. Thousands of people do it every day. But it does make a gesture that has an air of adventure to it, and it impressed people.

Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder told Ruhr industrialists plainly that there was no doubt the United States would stay in Europe because it was clearly in the interest of the United States.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told the Associated Press in an interview that he does not believe other NATO nations will follow the example of France in refusing to join the international nuclear fleet proposed by the United States.

Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte, obviously talking for De Gaulle, acidly commented that France had faith in Kennedy but felt it could not depend on the same attitude by his successor or successors.

Here, in brief, was De Gaulle telling Kennedy that his appeals and assurances had not changed De Gaulle's go-it-alone policy and were not likely to.

Thus Kennedy's trip and his forthright pledges of military defense of Europe actually drove France farther away from the close alliance Kennedy urged throughout the trip.

As for French man-in-the-street, the Kennedy visit left him cold, as did the fact that Kennedy was not invited to come to France.

Likely prognosis: De Gaulle will continue his plans for independent nuclear force, looser ties with NATO, greater independence from the influence of the United States and greater voice in continental policy for France.

France

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

Paris (P)—The effect of President Kennedy's tour seems to have been a widening of the breach of coolness and differences between the United States and France. Kennedy, by challenging De Gaulle in his Bonn and Frankfurt speeches—especially the latter wherein he said would risk American cities in the defense of Europe—made the differences even more evident.

NAACP Requests Wider Legislation

Chicago (P)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) requested Monday federal legislation to virtually eliminate all barriers to integration. It also announced plans for a series of nationwide demonstrations to rally support for its proposals.

The demonstrations will culminate with a giant national civil rights legislative convention in Washington, D.C., Aug. 6-8.

NAACP delegates and their leaders refused, even privately, to concede that their proposals—which go far beyond those recently sent to Congress by President Kennedy—had little chance of passage.

Minimal Demands

"They must be adopted," said Robert L. Carter, NAACP general counsel. "Those are our minimal demands." Carter introduced the resolution embodying the legislative program to the 54th annual NAACP Convention.

Negro leaders gathered here refused to discuss what action they would take—or what Negro reaction might be—if a strong civil rights program is not adopted by this session of Congress. The resolution, adopted unanimously by some 2,000 cheering, clapping delegates, called President's civil rights proposals "inadequate to meet the minimum needs of the existing situation."

While commanding the President's program as "a

step toward discharging the moral obligation of our federal government to its Negro citizens" the resolution urged these additional measures:

1. Establishment of a Fair Employment Practices Commission with the right to subpoena witnesses and evidence, and the legal teeth to enforce its decrees.

2. Extension of the attorney general's authority to initiate court suits to include any area of civil rights. (President Kennedy has proposed that the attorney general be given the power to initiate court action only in school desegregation cases.)

3. Provide for legal sanctions against labor unions that practice discrimination.

Demonstrations

The resolution outlined a program of massive public demonstrations beginning with local civil rights rallies in the latter part of July "for the purpose of mobilizing local grass-roots support."

The August Washington convention was planned despite warnings by some congressional leaders that public demonstrations in the nation's capital could jeopardize adoption of any civil rights legislation.

The relatively mild turnout

he received from the people of Rome did not hide the underlying warmth for the chief executive of the United States.

Now Khrushchev appears to be revising his offer, this time with a new condition attached.

Italy

By GERALD MILLER

Rome (P)—President Kennedy's trip to Italy had a doublebarreled effect: it dramatized for Italians the genuinely intimate regard this nation has for the United States, where so many millions of Italians in the past found homes and a new way of life.

The visit got across to government and political leaders with whom Kennedy met the point of his challenge to President de Gaulle.

In this respect, however, Kennedy's effectiveness was a priori limited by the political situation in Italy today.

Italy has only an interim government with a limited objective of carrying on until a workable majority government alliance capable of forging full-fledged policies emerges from the current political confusion.

Ogallala Area Wheat Averaging 20-25 Bus.

Perfect Weather Speeds Up Panhandle Harvest

By the Associated Press
The 1963 wheat crop in the Ogallala area will average between 20 and 25 bushels of better than average quality, according to estimates by growers and elevator managers.

And the harvest is expected to be over, except for clean-up work, by the Fourth of July.

Perfect harvesting weather has sped cutting operations. Temperatures here have hit the 100 degree mark 4 consecutive days and 5 of the last 7 days.

Plenty of combines, trucks and crews are available.

One Ogallala farmer, John Maley, reported this was the first time he had finished cutting in June since 1921. Maley said yields on his farm were extremely varied, running from 50 bushels in one spot to as low as 5 on another.

Average yield in the Grant area is expected to be better than the anticipated 25 bushels to the acre. Harvesting there is on the downhill grade.

Wheat in the Paxton area is expected to be slightly lower in yields, about 20 bushel to the acre. Crown rot, winter kill and hail losses have cut the overall yield but the grain is of high quality.

Harvesting will end there this week barring inclement weather.

Harvesting is all but finished in the Venango, Big Spring and south of Brule areas. Big Spring yields average 25 bushels. Farmers Co-Op Manager William Brandorff of Brule said yields range from 15 to 35 bushels.

Average yield around Roscoe is between 20 and 22 bushels, according to Fred Gordon of Hull Grain Co.

Harvesting is in progress in all areas of the state except the northern part of the Panhandle, the wheat harvest bulletin of the State Department of Labor reported.

The bulletin gave this picture:

McCook — Harvest about 90% completed in the 8 county area around McCook. Should finish north and west of Imperial Wednesday or Thursday. Wheat is varying from 8 to 30 bushels per acre in the Imperial area. There are adequate men and machines to finish the crop.

Grant — Should finish by July 4. Wheat varying from 8

20% Of Oats Crop Is Ripe

More than 30% of Nebraska's wheat crop has been harvested, government crop observers reported Tuesday.

Harvest is 10 days ahead of normal in spite of delays from floods and wet weather in the east, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said.

Other observations:

About three-fourths of the oats has turned color and 20% of the acreage is rated ripe, but only about 5% has been harvested.

Dryland corn, grasses and other crops in central and western districts have been hurt by hot, windy weather.

Corn rootworm damage is widespread and damage from the corn borer is reported serious in some localities.

Sugar beets, beans and potatoes have made good progress in most sections but dryland alfalfa and wild hay will be short where moisture reserves have been low. About 20% of the second crop of alfalfa is cut.

Rainfall received throughout Nebraska during the past week included:

Hart Jorgensen Stricken On Job

Omaha (2) — The executive director of the Omaha Livestock Foundation, Hart Jorgensen, suffered a cerebral hemorrhage during his 12:30 p.m. market news broadcast Tuesday.

He was reported in critical condition at an Omaha hospital.

Jorgensen, 56, has been broadcasting livestock market information on radio station KFAB for many years.

He came to Omaha from Sioux City in 1947 when he became executive director of the foundation.

Former State Health Official Dies In Iowa

Des Moines, Iowa (UPI) — Dr. Edmund G. Zimmerer, 74, Iowa state health commissioner since 1953, died early Tuesday at Methodist Hospital here.

Zimmerer, who was appointed to the post by former Gov. William S. Beardsley, had been associated with the Iowa Department of Health since 1941 when he joined the staff as director of the Division of Cancer Control.

Before joining the Iowa department, Zimmerer was director of the Division of Venereal Disease, Nebraska State Department of Health, from 1937-40, and prior to that was Nebraska State Bacteriologist 1912-14, and medical director of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Lincoln, 1914-37.

A native of York, Neb., Zimmerer attended St. Mary's College, St. Mary's Kan.; Creighton University, Omaha; the University of Vienna, Austria, and Harvard University.

Zimmerer served as a special consultant to the National Cancer Institute, Washington from 1948 to 55 and at his death was senior surgeon for the U.S. Public Health Service. He served in the Army Medical Corps and held the rank of major in the reserves.

Summary of Conditions

Warmer air is coming back into eastern Nebraska and western Iowa due to a stationary cold front northeast as a warm front Wednesday. The cold front presently lies from Topeka, Kan., to near the Great Lakes and into western Nebraska Panhandle on into a low in southwestern Montana. As the cold front begins moving as a warm front, it will bring the cold air across the state to central South Dakota and back into a low center in eastern Montana.

A few widely scattered thunderstorms may set in in western Nebraska Wednesday as the warm front moves eastward while the high with a center now in southeast Manitoba moves into Ontario.

20% Of Oats Crop Is Ripe

More than 30% of Nebraska's wheat crop has been harvested, government crop observers reported Tuesday.

Harvest is 10 days ahead of normal in spite of delays from floods and wet weather in the east, the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said.

Other observations:

About three-fourths of the oats has turned color and 20% of the acreage is rated ripe, but only about 5% has been harvested.

Dryland corn, grasses and other crops in central and western districts have been hurt by hot, windy weather. Corn rootworm damage is widespread and damage from the corn borer is reported serious in some localities.

Sugar beets, beans and potatoes have made good progress in most sections but dryland alfalfa and wild hay will be short where moisture reserves have been low. About 20% of the second crop of alfalfa is cut.

Rainfall received throughout Nebraska during the past week included:

Hart Jorgensen Stricken On Job

Omaha (AP) — The executive director of the Omaha Livestock Foundation, Hart Jorgensen, suffered a cerebral hemorrhage during his 12:30 p.m. market news broadcast Tuesday.

He was reported in critical condition at an Omaha hospital.

Jorgensen, 56, has been broadcasting livestock market information on radio station KFAB for many years.

He came to Omaha from Sioux City in 1947 when he became executive director of the foundation.

Summary Of Conditions

Warmer air is coming back into eastern Nebraska and western Iowa due to a stationary cold front which is expected to begin working north and northeast as a warm front Wednesday. The cold front pressure from Topeka, Kan., to the Concordia and in the west central Nebraska Panhandle on into a low in southwestern Montana. As the cold front moves, it will bring a warm front, it will likely be near Omaha, extending to central South Dakota and back into a low center in eastern Montana.

A few widely scattered thunderstorms may be off the central Nebraska map as the warm front moves eastward while the high with a center now in southeast Manitoba moves into Ontario.

Looking Two Years Hence

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

By the looks of studies approved by the Legislature as interim committee projects, the 1965 Legislature will look a lot like the 1963 model. Taxes, education, public power, water pollution control, educational television — these are a few of the subjects that will be gone over under terms of resolutions already approved by the Legislature.

It would not be surprising if there were somewhat of a public groan as it pursued the list of subjects.

Follow-Up Is Slow

But all we can hope at this point is that some day the Legislature will follow up on its studies. If it did this, there would be no argument with such an approach. The Legislature has not batted zero in this area as we do have some improved tax laws on the books as a result of the McClelland tax report and these laws should help matters. We also will witness a good start this year on educational television with an expected $600,000 appropriation in this area. This is one of the highlights, in fact, of the current session.

But public power and other areas of study during the past two years were not effectively dealt with. And of course, the major recommendation of the McClelland report — for an income tax — was turned down. Sen. George Gerdes of Alliance was reported to say in regard to a study of property tax administration and enforcement that the probe will prove that "we've about milked this cow dry."

The words are sort of homespun, such as the Associated Press used in reporting while President Kennedy was in Ireland that "not a lick of work was done in the countryside," but they get the job done. We can be assured, especially with Sen. Terry Carpenter at the helm, that the tax issue will be a hot one again in 1965.

The major question will be whether the senators two years from now go all the way and change the property tax base as should be done or if they make a stab at things by picking further the bones of the property tax. We have nothing particular against a study of the property tax and believe, in fact, that administration and enforcement, especially enforcement, can undoubtedly be improved. Enforcement has to do with equality and we are convinced that there is a great lack of this among the counties of the state. The more populous counties seem to be chiseling the most but this is only logical since they have the most property. If Senator Carpenter wants to, and he probably does, he will be able to turn up cases of abuse in just about every county of the state.

It remains to be seen, however, if this solves the problem that Senator Gerdes referred to. There is this much to be said for the property tax study — if a thorough enough job is done on it, it will likely create a great demand for a change in the tax base. Senator Carpenter has said he will fight any candidate for governor who campaigns on a broadened tax base platform. We are not sure what he means by this but he could supply the ammunition himself with his study that would shoot a lot more holes in the existing tax system. If the property tax were uniformly and severely enforced, we think people would have lot more of it than they wanted in short order and we wouldn't be at all surprised if this were Senator Carpenter's thinking in the matter.

The study approved of educational television (ETV) is one that is even more difficult to understand. The state has a good and workable plan already on the books and a substantial appropriation appears to be certain for a good start on the plan this coming biennium. Further study of this subject would appear to be a waste of taxpayers' money and a waste of the time of senators.

There will be a study of local community problems. What was intended by the sponsor of this proposal has not been publicly discussed but the idea would seem to have merit, certainly more merit than some of the other subjects to be taken up by interim committees.

Perhaps the Legislature has visions of state interference with local affairs by getting into a subject such as this but would we rather have the problems than state assistance?

It would be a good thing for the Legislature to conduct a series of meetings throughout the state in an effort to find out the thinking of local citizens on such subjects as education, tourism, industrial expansion, highways, agricultural research, etc. Such state areas of concern as these are also areas of concern at the local level.

The two are complementary, not conflicting. Other studies such as legislative processes, traffic laws and the state constitution have merit but only if the senators two years from now are of a mind to follow the recommendations of the study. And this will depend, to a large degree, upon whom the voters return to the Legislature with their 1964 balloting.

Matching Streets And Zoning

Still a matter of some concern to those who believe in good zoning is the relationship between zoning and street development. Those professionals in the field of zoning and traffic movement are well aware of the existence of the relationship but the progress in these two fields of work still has not produced a very good answer to the problem.

The problem shows itself in two questions now before the City Council — one on zoning and one on street width. On the latter, the issue is the width, 44 feet or 26 feet, for R from 48th to 56th and 52nd from O to R. Business interests in the area, principally Gateway Shopping Center, want the extra width, for which they are willing to pay. But a group of residents are against what they believe will be an arterial street if the width is not held to 26 feet.

Worrisome Prospect

Though July has lost its earlier significance as the vacation month it is still a nice time to think of one.

Before the days of the superhighways and air conditioning, midsummer was the time for vacations. But distance is no longer a problem and a turn of the switch will produce the precisely desired climate. As many people go south in the winter as go north in the summer and no one really has to go anywhere. However, there are still basic conditions. Vacations should be relatively brief. The longer they last the more tedious they become. And since most of the fun is in anticipation, one can get all of that preparing for a four day stay as well as a four month one.

In view of that it strikes one as impractical that the new steel workers contract has a provision allowing for vacations up to 13 weeks. That's not a vacation. That's unemployment.

On the latter, the issue is the width, 44 feet or 26 feet, for R from 48th to 56th and 52nd from O to R. Business interests in the area, principally Gateway Shopping Center, want the extra width, for which they are willing to pay. But a group of residents are against what they believe will be an arterial street if the width is not held to 26 feet.

Worrisome Prospect

Though July has lost its earlier significance as the vacation month it is still a time to think of one.

Before the days of the superhighways and air conditioning, midsummer was the time for vacations. But distance is no longer a problem and a turn of the switch will produce the precisely desired climate. As many people go south in the winter as go north in the summer and no one really has to go anywhere. However, there are still basic conditions. Vacations should be relatively brief. The longer they last the more tedious they become. And since most of the fun is in anticipation, one can get all of that preparing for a four day stay as well as a four month one.

In view of that it strikes one as impractical that the new steel workers contract has a provision allowing for vacations up to 13 weeks. That's not a vacation. That's unemployment.

President Reassured Europe

ROME — As the President's tour nears an end some of the consequences can be appraised. While they are not all on the credit side of the ledger the balance is, on the whole, favorable.

First the German visit, which was the essential part of the exercise, established beyond doubt that the President had to live up to the commitment he made months before. To have cancelled the tour would have had a serious and perhaps even disastrous result in weakening the outward evidence of America's partnership with Europe.

The President's position with respect to Germany and Europe would seem to be greatly strengthened. As seen by certain of his close advisers on the tour he has now reassured the German people. What is equally important, he has been reassured by Vice-chancellor Ludwig Erhard, who will succeed Konrad Adenauer, and by Mayor Willy Brandt of Berlin, the socialist leader, that having done his stint in Germany he need no longer be distracted by German fears and doubts.

This understanding is perhaps the most important result. In effect, he has made his terms with the future as that future can be discerned in the murky and uncertain present.

majority view in Europe — the view of five of the six members of the European Common Market — that partnership with the United States is essential to the security and well-being of the West.

What has happened since the President's visit to Germany throws this into a new and sharper light. The French minister of information, Alain Peyrefitte, came out with an attack on the United States, saying in even stronger terms than before that no one could tell what future administrations in Washington would do and Peyrefitte never speaks except as the mouthpiece of De Gaulle. European diplomats were shocked by the crudity of this attack coming so close to the President's visit.

At almost the same time the German foreign minister, Gerhard Schroeder, one of the new men in Germany who had been serious contender for the chancellorship, said precisely the opposite. He seemed to be reflecting Kennedy's words when he told an audience in Duesseldorf that it was not enough merely to reassert the partnership with America — deeds demonstrating this partnership must go along with words.

If anyone knows how to check the growing alienation between the five European powers plus the United States and France, it is time to come forward and speak up. Contrary to what some advocates of De Gaulle and Gaullism have said, Washington has taken repeated initiatives only to be ignored or rebuffed. As the great man pursues his lonely course bent on achieving a national nuclear deterrent the fearful cost is creating inflationary pressures resulting in strikes and lockouts in basic industries and the end is not in sight.

If this is for the time being an impossible riddle, those who take the hopeful view believe that the President, thanks to his tour, has a new independence. With the Germans reassured he can proceed — in a confident partnership — to push for the objectives of his American University speech and an easing of the tensions of the cold war.

It may well be shown by later events that the most important single diplomatic development today is the President's continuing exchange of private letters with Premier Khrushchev. There is no more closely guarded secret than this personal exchange. To talk about it in terms of a crude "deal" between Moscow and Washington, as suspicious critics do, misses the mark.

But in its frankness and often unsparring honesty it may prepare the way for an understanding that could in turn lead to tangible achievements in line with the American University doctrine. While it is still in the realm of speculation knowledgeable associates of the President are discussing a meeting with Khrushchev before the end of the year. The sequence would be a moratorium on testing arrived at in the mid-July meeting in Moscow, renewed negotiation on a test-ban agreement at a lower level and then, with the ground rules carefully laid down, a meeting of the principals.

This involves many intangibles, not the least of them being the Khrushchev temperament and his own troubles within the communist bloc. But it is a gamble and the odds may be on a favorable outcome.

DREW PEARSON

Further Look At TFX Deal Urged

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Washington Merry-Go-Round today is written by Drew Pearson's associate, Jack Anderson.

WASHINGTON — A suggestion to Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Government Operations Committee — before you close the books on your protracted probe of the TFX contract, here are some important leads your investigators have overlooked. They pertain chiefly to the fact that Grumman Aircraft is a vital partner in the General Dynamics TFX contract and Grumman's close liaison with the Democratic party.

This does not mean to exclude General Dynamics from political motivation. They have used politics and lured ex-Pentagon officials as much or more than any company. But in a contract running into $6 billions, they are sub-contractors, and long before the TFX contract was let, one Pentagon general told this column, "Grumman is the company with the Democats."

Jenkins emphasized that Vice President Johnson had taken no free rides in Gulfstreams, but when this writer talked to Rettalata he admitted that Grumman had furnished the vice president with a "demonstration plane."

Lead No. 2 — Before the TFX contract was awarded, the President's brother, Senator Teddy, spoke to Rettalata and other Grumman officials about placing more sub-contracts in Massachusetts.

When I asked Rettalata whether Grumman would do what the senator from Massachusetts asked, he replied:

"It would be hard to avoid the area."

Lead No. 4 — Whether Vice President Johnson intervened in the TFX contract on behalf of General Dynamics-Grumman is a matter of dispute. The Air Force states that Secretary of the Air Force Eugene Zuckert had received an inquiry from Johnson regarding the status of the contract, but the vice president, when queried, told me emphatically: "Zuckert's memory is faulty. I kept completely out of the TFX negotiations."

Italy Staggers, Vatican Firms Up

ROME — About all that President Kennedy can do politically in Italy is to give its politicians what President Eisenhower used to call "the big picture." This is admittedly less satisfactory than talking turkey with a stable government of assured tenure, but it has always admired.

The new Pope Paul VI has waited less than a week to announce that the Universal Council of the Roman Catholic Church would resume September 29. This is the Ecumenical Council begun by John XXIII which fired so many men of goodwill outside the faith as well as inside.

One is to remind the quibbling, quarreling factions that their rich uncle has great projects afoot which require stable partners. Full cooperation with anything less would be too hazardous to the United States.

Italy's politicians have been able to prolong their total immersion in factionalism because the country's economy continues sound. In this they unfortunately differ little from their foreign counterparts who play the same little games when satisfied that people are working and eating.

It was, of course, a jolt to the West when April's national elections saw the communists gain an unexpected million votes with some gains, too, on the far right. Now the socialists, who were the old balance of power, are splitting apart. The prospect of a long period of unrest here while would-be kings and kingmakers strive for advantage is a dismaying one.

In contrast, the Vatican is displaying a sensitivity to the rushing pace of change which will help to bulwark his whisperings of a draft.

Red Menace

Scribner, Neb.

How long before the people awaken to the danger that surrounds us on every side? Steadily the communist conquest progresses, with only momentary pauses when warnings of the guards of our freedom threaten to arouse us.

The Cuban situation has developed as planned — Khrushchev's offer of a token compliance to Kennedy's demands lulled us back to a false sense of security. With this triumph under their belts, the communists increased their efforts to stimulate the race riots which had already been well planned for a successful revolution in the U.S. and to arouse such distrust among many of the foreign nations that their representatives in the U.N. will seek to have the U.N. forces step in and take charge of our internal strife. This could yield nothing but slavery for the whites as well as the Negroes and another victory for the communists.

On April 30 your editorial page defended due process, which was indeed cheering and encouraging, since unless one personally experiences the violation of his constitutional rights and perhaps is even convicted by a jury who has not had the background nor the information to determine the guilt, an attitude of complacency prevails. Perhaps these surveys and your editorials will alert us that unless we safeguard our liberties and defend our tradition of due process, we will be in the same sad state as the communists.

The frailty of the jury system is often expressed by thoughtful observers. In a decision by the Nebraska Supreme Court (1949), it was the opinion that: "The evaluation of lie-detector test results was 'too subtle a task to impose upon an untrained jury.'

On the subject of lie-detection, I am still reeling from an article in the May 23 Star, reporting on the instructions to a law-enforcement seminar by lie-detector expert (this label would not be lost on a prospective juror) John Reid, who figured so prominently in the Darrel Parker case. Now, were a new panel of jurors to be not to take too seriously the theme of such shows as "The Defenders," "Perry Mason," etc., where the accused nearly always is proven innocent and where the prosecuting attorney is depicted as the politically ambitious villain, seeking only to pile up a number of convictions to enhance his reputation instead of seeing that justice is done.

The Cuban situation has developed as planned — Khrushchev's offer of a token compliance to Kennedy's demands lulled us back to a false sense of security. With this triumph under their belts, the communists increased their efforts to stimulate the race riots which had already been well planned for a successful revolution in the U.S. and to arouse such distrust among many of the foreign nations that their representatives in the U.N. will seek to have the U.N. forces step in and take charge of our internal strife. This could yield nothing but slavery for the whites as well as the Negroes and another victory for the communists.

A year ago in June, Khrushchev, speaking in Budapest, said he was convinced that the Red flag would soon be flying over the United States, but that it would be the American people themselves flying it. Seeing the smugness about us in face of the step-by-step accomplishment of his plans for world conquest, we have no choice but to regretfully believe that again he is speaking the truth.

Judicial Matters

Omaha, Neb.

Your challenging editorial, "Lacks Faith In Law," brought out facts and opinions which are rarely thought about openly. I believe one important factor which has brought about this apparent disenchantment with our judicial processes is the medium of television, which has a greater impact on its viewers than any other medium. Many are getting the uneasy feeling that one cannot be assured of a fair and impartial trial unless they can afford the top defense attorneys portrayed as champions of the oppressed.

Before the advent of television, the ordinary citizen depended on his newspaper for facts, opinions and editorial comments. Since the majority of papers represent the conservative element, I believe it is fair to say that as a rule lean towards the side of the state and the prosecution. I know that we have been constantly admonished by our monopoly press drawn to serve on a rehearing of this case in the near future, they would without question remember Mr. Reid's stout assertions and not your fine editorial, "Lacks Faith In Law." Now, if there were the opportunity and the medium to present both sides — that Mr. Reid has been discredited many times for his steamroller tactics — then perhaps a person would feel that he did have an even chance for a fair trial when accused of a crime. The ordinary citizen accepts these statements by "experts" at face value and proceeds accordingly, should he be summoned for jury duty. Further, juries, not surprisingly, reflect the attitudes of the communities in which they live.

Wrong Number

Clay Center, Neb.

With the telephone company calling for seven-digit numbers, the post office calling for ZIP code numbers, the Social Security office calling for S. S. numbers, Internal Revenue Service calling for income tax numbers, the druggist calling for prescription numbers, the warehouse calling for invoice numbers, I. B. M. calling for thousands of numbers, and Kennedy calling Khrushchev's numbers, what's going to be done with all the dumb operators who give wrong numbers unintentionally and all the smart operators who give the wrong number intentionally?

"Sorry, wrong number" may soon be a national catastrophe.

'Mom And Pop' Exemption In Sunday Closing Bill Said Unconstitutional

An attorney general's opinion made public Tuesday holds unconstitutional the Sunday closing bill in the State Legislature. The defect was found in a provision for the exemption "mom and pop" stores—operated by two full time persons (the owner and wife, for instance) and more than one part time employee. The Sunday closing bill, LB710, is scheduled to come for final passage Wednesday. Copies of Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer's opinion holding the act unconstitutional as presently written is distributed by Sen. Dale Lyne of Papillion, a foe of the bill. Payne said he will move, when the bill shows up for final reading, to strike the enacting clause, a device to kill a bill.

The bill contains a "savings clause" so that if any sections of the bill are found unconstitutional, the validity of the other sections would not be affected and would remain in force.

Backers of LB710 also could delete the objectionable portion by amendment.

LB710 makes it illegal to sell on Sunday approximately 65 items, generally in the non-essential category. Persons who conscientiously observe Saturday as their Sabbath may restrict their selling on Saturdays instead of Sundays.

No Justification
Referring to the "mom and pop" stores exemption, the opinion prepared by Asst. Atty. Gen. Bernard L. Packett said there can be no justification for regulating a business employing three persons and not regulating one employing two persons.

(The attorney general's opinion was written at a time when the bill exempted only stores operated by two full time persons. The bill was amended later to exclude stores with two or less and one part time worker.)

"It is our opinion," the attorney general said, "that the effect and result of exempting from the provisions of the bill all businesses employing two or less may open on Sunday (or Saturday as the case may be) and may sell all of the commodities which the bill would prevent businesses employing more than two persons from selling on the same days.

The privileges and rights accorded to businesses employing two or less are denied to businesses employing more than two persons.

Hardware Sales

"It would not be unreasonable to assume that businesses employing two persons selling hardware (one of the items which LB710 would make it illegal to sell on Sunday) would be in competition with a business employing three persons selling hardware. Businesses employing two persons affect the permissible subject matter of LB710 in very much, if not identically, the same way as the business activities of those employing three persons . . .

"Reason cannot explain how the health and welfare of the people of Nebraska is promoted by permitting the sale of hardware by a business employing two persons and at the same time prohibiting the sale of the same article by a business employing three persons."

"It is unreasonable and arbitrary to allow the unrestricted sale on Sunday by businesses employing two persons and to deny this privilege and right to businesses employing three persons. There is no reason that justifies the regulation of businesses employing three persons which does not apply in equal force to businesses employing two persons."

The opinion noted that under the constitution, persons in the same class must be governed by the same rules.

Commenting on the opinion, Sen. Payne said "we were not sent here to pass unconstitutional legislation."

He termed the act "a legal monstrosity, almost impossible to enforce," and said it would cost the state more than $100,000 just to defend the court actions that would be brought against it as a result of the bill if passed.

For the first time in many years, a cigarette shortage Spain. And when I sent a y on the streets—(boys in uniform—"botones"—run the errands here)— returned ving sadly; lo lo hay. What do u mean re aren't y? No conbando?"

For years, contraband cigarettes have been one of the fixed features of Spain. There were the legal tobacco stores. You got American cigarettes with a Spanish duty stamp on the package. Then there were the little vendores—"resellers". They sit on the streets with small box of various kinds of cigarettes. When cigarettes are in short supply, the vendores had them. They were sold quite openly—American cigarettes with stamp on them at all. They came in great quantities from Africa, usually Tangier. Smuggled by fishing boats and trucked northward the markets.

The botones said that in no manner, the police had seized a couple of truckloads recently.

Battle Of Gettysburg Anniversary Parade Has Modern Tinges

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

Gettysburg Battlefield (Pa.)—Civil War cannon roared from creeping flat bed trucks and in the sky jet planes boomed through the sound barrier. Thus, with modern-day tinges a mammoth pageant parade moved through town Tuesday on the 100th anniversary of the second look of the Battle of Gettysburg.

It was a glorious twice-wet spectacle. Many of the marchers and many of the estimated 35,000 spectators were sodden—first by a thunderstorm that rumbled up a half hour before the parade, and then by perspiration as a warm sun broke out.

This parade had about everything: A reasonable facsimile of President Abraham Lincoln walking in the van; Civil War buffs in blue and gray; high-stepping majorettes; snappy National Guardsmen and regulars; a gay display in which military cooks ladled out unappetizing chow from a big can.

Prelude
It was a prelude to Wednesday's grand finale commemoration of the great 3-day struggle that turned the tide in the Civil War.

Pickett's charge will be enacted Wednesday, without a shot but with stereophonic effects. When the Blue and the Gray will meet at the famous copse of woods, the highwater mark of the doomed Confederacy.

Grand marshal of the parade, which proceeded through two miles of streets lined thickly with cheering spectators, was Maj. Gen. Henry K. Flick, commander of the 28th Infantry Division of the Pennsylvania National Guard. A score of bands, playing Union, Confederate and modern songs, were in the lineup.

As the procession passed the reviewing stand near the post office, Flick, wearing a hard hat, dropped out and took his post in the stand. Among others in the stand, and enjoying himself immensely was a segregationist Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

Police Near
Two plain clothesmen of the state police hovered in the background just in case some hot integrationist should launch a demonstration against Wallace. But nothing like that happened.

In fact Wallace said he had never received a more gracious reception than here. "I think I am safer here than I am at home," Wallace said, "I've got political enemies in Alabama but I haven't met any here."

Wallace applauded impartially as George Gordon Meade III and Robert E. Lee IV, descendants of the commanders in the battle a century ago, rode by in jeeps.

Big Laugh

The biggest laugh of the parade came when a squadron of Confederate cavalry came by towing a prisoner behind them on a horse. His hands were bound with heavy rope but his big grin showed he had no fear of his fate.

Rebel yell mingled with the strain of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The displays ranged from a copy of a YMCA coffee wagon that served the troops in 1863 to a modern 155MM howitzer, ugly looking but affectionately labeled "Dainty Dee."

Great Cheer

There was a great cheer for the Knights of Erin Band of Winchester, Va., gaudy in green uniforms and golden plumed hats.

Spectators jumped when the 6th North Carolina Infantry let go with a civil war canon carried on a big truck. The cannoneers quickly swabbed out the barrel of the old weapon, rammed home a new blank, and kept the gun roaring as fast as they could.

Mounted on another truck was a white-hatted cook of the 28th Division, Pennsylvania National Guard. He kept scooping up goo out of a kettle and letting it drip back. The joke seemed to be appreciated especially by those familiar with military chow from a big can.

There was a great cheer for the Knights of Erin Band of Winchester, Va., gaudy in green uniforms and golden plumed hats.

Spectators jumped when the 6th North Carolina Infantry let go with a civil war canon carried on a big truck. The cannoneers quickly swabbed out the barrel of the old weapon, rammed home a new blank, and kept the gun roaring as fast as they could.

Mounted on another truck was a white-hatted cook of the 28th Division, Pennsylvania National Guard. He kept scooping up goo out of a kettle and letting it drip back. The joke seemed to be appreciated especially by those familiar with military chow from a big can.

Prelude

It was a prelude to Wednesday's grand finale commemoration of the great 3-day struggle that turned the tide in the Civil War.

Pickett's charge will be enacted Wednesday, without a shot but with stereophonic effects. When the Blue and the Gray will meet at the famous copse of woods, the highwater mark of the doomed Confederacy.

Grand marshal of the parade, which proceeded through two miles of streets lined thickly with cheering spectators, was Maj. Gen. Henry K. Flick, commander of the 28th Infantry Division of the Pennsylvania National Guard. A score of bands, playing Union, Confederate and modern songs, were in the lineup.

As the procession passed the reviewing stand near the post office, Flick, wearing a hard hat, dropped out and took his post in the stand. Among others in the stand, and enjoying himself immensely was a segregationist Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

Police Near
Two plain clothesmen of the state police hovered in the background just in case some hot integrationist should launch a demonstration against Wallace. But nothing like that happened.

In fact Wallace said he had never received a more gracious reception than here. "I think I am safer here than I am at home," Wallace said, "I've got political enemies in Alabama but I haven't met any here."

Wallace applauded impartially as George Gordon Meade III and Robert E. Lee IV, descendants of the commanders in the battle a century ago, rode by in jeeps.

Big Laugh

The biggest laugh of the parade came when a squadron of Confederate cavalry came by towing a prisoner behind them on a horse. His hands were bound with heavy rope but his big grin showed he had no fear of his fate.

Rebel yell mingled with the strain of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

The displays ranged from a copy of a YMCA coffee wagon that served the troops in 1863 to a modern 155MM howitzer, ugly looking but affectionately labeled "Dainty Dee."

Town Uneasy Over Prospect Of Athiest Center Being Built

Stockton, Kan. (UPI)—City fathers of Stockton stirred uneasily Tuesday at the prospect of having an atheist center couched on the outskirts of this western Kansas farm community.

Plans for the center were announced in Baltimore by Mrs. Madalyn Murray, a mother who carried her case against Bible reading and prayer in schools to the U.S. Supreme Court and won it.

"It is the movement of one man here which I think is quite out of step with the community," said the Rev.

Karl Schuster, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

Herbert Jones, Chamber of Commerce president in Stockton, said the idea "would not sit too well with most people in the city."

Varied Reaction

But his offer and Mrs. Murray's acceptance brought varied reaction.

"I believe in freedom of religion and in the freedom to worship or not worship," Rev. Meadow said. "He (Brown) has the right under the Constitution to believe as he feels, but I happen not to agree with him."

Jones said some residents were "quite upset about the whole thing," partly because they think Brown might withdraw an offer to establish a home for elderly people in the city.

Mrs. Murray announced that the atheist center might include a home for the aged, along with a university, a radio station and a printing plant.

Unsure of Offer

Jones said Brown had offered a substantial amount of money to build such a home in Stockton, "but now we're bound over to the grand jury."

Beckwith pleaded innocent at a preliminary hearing before City Judge James L. Spencer last week but was ordered held for grand jury action. He had been detained without bond since he was bound over to the grand jury.

Waller indicated he had presented the same evidence to the grand jury which he presented at the preliminary hearing. Grand jury hearings in Mississippi are secret and no further report was expected.

Dispute In Belgium Brings Government's Resignation

Brussels, Belgium (UPI)—The language dispute that has split Belgium—one of the strongest supporters of European integration—brought the government's resignation Tuesday.

Premier Theo Lefevre called on King Baudouin and asked him to accept the resignation of his government, a careful balance of Flemish and Walloon Socialists and Flemish and Walloon Social Christians bitterly split and his Social support gone, he had no choice but to resign.

The issue that brought down the government—the language status of Brussels suburbs—is symbolic of the problem that has split the 9 million people of Belgium and led to clashes between the two language groups.

Northern Belgians are Flemings. They speak Flemish, a form of Dutch. Southern Belgian are Walloons. They speak French. Brussels, in the Flemish area, is officially a two-language city.

Battle Of Gettysburg Anniversary Parade Has Modern Tinges

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

Gettysburg Battlefield (P)—Civil War cannon roared from creeping flat bed trucks and in the sky jet planes boomed through the sound barrier. Thus, with modern-day tinges a mammoth pageant parade moved through town Tuesday on the 100th anniversary of the second day of the Battle of Gettysburg.

It was a glorious twice-wet spectacle. Many of the marchers and many of the estimated 35,000 spectators were sodden—first by a thunderstorm that rumbled up a half hour before the parade, and then by perspiration as a warm sun broke out.

This parade had about everything: A reasonable facsimile of President Abraham Lincoln walking in the van; Civil War buffs in blue and gray; high-stepping majorettes; snappy National Guardsmen and regulars; a gay display in which military cooks ladled out unappetizing chow from a big can.

Jury Indicts Beckwith On Charge Of Murder

Jackson, Miss. (UPI)—Byron de La Beckwith, a white 42-year-old ex-Marine, was indicted on a charge of murder Tuesday for the sniper slaying of Negro integration leader Medgar Evers.

District Atty. William L. Waller has said he will seek the death penalty in the case.

Beckwith was served with a formal notice of the grand jury's action Tuesday afternoon in his county jail cell, and arraignment was set for 2 p.m. CST (4 p.m. EDT) Wednesday before Circuit Judge Len Hendrick.

The Hinds County grand jury that returned the indictment was made up of 17 white men and one Negro.

Evers, Mississippi field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), was shot to death in the driveway of his home early on the morning of June 12. He had just returned from an integration rally.

A .30 caliber Enfield rifle was later found in a honeysuckle patch in a vacant lot across the street from Evers' residence.

Beckwith pleaded innocent at a preliminary hearing before City Judge James L. Spencer last week but was ordered held for grand jury action. He had been detained without bond since he was bound over to the grand jury.

Waller indicated he had presented the same evidence to the grand jury which he presented at the preliminary hearing. Grand jury hearings in Mississippi are secret and no further report was expected.

Unsure of Offer

Jones said Brown had offered a substantial amount of money to build such a home in Stockton, "but now we're not sure the offer stands."

The Rev. Schuster stoutly opposed establishment of the center as "an idea that will not in any way reflect the beliefs of our people here."

"Mr. Brown is a very public spirited person and he's a personal friend of mine," the minister said. "But faith in God is necessary for the progress of our community."

Jones said no movement was afoot to stop construction of the atheist center. "But we'll probably do a lot of talking about it," he added.

Touched Off

The row was touched off by a dispute over the way the Conservative government handled recent security disclosures. These were topped by Monday's revelation that diplomat-turne-d-newspaper Harold Phibby was the mysterious "third man" who had not in any way reflect the beliefs of our people here."

"You really must learn to distinguish between invective and insolence," the prime minister added.

Start of Fight

Verbal sword-crossing first started when a Conservative member of Parliament asked Macmillan if he planned to appoint a minister of security.

The prime minister replied that he would have to await the result of a judicial inquiry into the John Profumo-Christine Keeler-Yevgeny Ivanov affair before deciding.

Wilson then asked if Macmillan would appoint a new judicial inquiry into the Phibby affair "assuming you have enough judges to go around." He charged Macmillan with ducking questions.

The prime minister replied angrily that "the questions you have put to me were complicated and offensive."

Red Re-Elected

The animals remained generally calm, a zoo spokesman said. Mrs. Eleanor Goecks, secretary to Dr. Young, said "the sprinklers are on full blast. Animals actually are safer than the people."

Firemen and Dr. Wesley Young, zoo supervisor, said Tuesday afternoon it would not be necessary to evacuate any of the animals. "We won't even move one little bird," said Young.

8 More Interim Studies Okayed

The Legislature Tuesday approved 8 more Legislative Council interim study proposals, including inquiries into taxation of intangible property, highway classification and employment practices.

Action brought to 19 the total number of between-sessions studies thus far endorsed by the unicameral.

Yet to be acted upon are resolutions urging probes into taxation of livestock and adjudication of labor disputes. Both failed to receive the recommendation of the Legislative Council's executive board.

Notwithstanding, however, Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton has proposed that Resolution 55, asking the livestock tax study, be approved notwithstanding the board's report.

Earlier, the Legislature overruled the board's recommendation when it decided to approve Resolution 67, ordering a continuing inquiry into community problems.

Sen. William Brandt of Undilla asked that the study be directed in order to assist "a depressed area of our economy," that is, declining small towns.

All other studies had been endorsed by the executive board.

Burbach urged that a livestock tax probe be undertaken in order to "find the proper formula" for assessing farm animals.

Average Inventory

Average inventory "may be the ideal method," he suggested, and a study would help determine its feasibility.

Burbach will confer with Sens. Elvin Adamson of Nenzel and Don McGinley of Ogallala in an effort to draft an amended resolution acceptable to interested senators.

Approved Tuesday were:

- Resolution 43, state retirement systems assigned to the executive board, 16-4.
- Resolution 58, taxation of intangible property, 24-1.
- Resolution 61, investment of public funds, assigned to the executive board, 26-2.
- Resolution 62, classification of roads for the state highway system, 26-1.
- Resolution 64, employment practices, 27-1.
- Resolution 65, classification of school laws, 26-1.
- Resolution 66, watersheds and flood control, combined with Resolution 33 on water quality, 25-1.
- Resolution 67, community problems, 28-2.

Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln, chief sponsor of Resolution 54, objected to confining the retirement study within the executive board instead of directing a full-scale committee probe.

Legislative Bills Introduced

Bills introduced in the Legislature Tuesday:

LB811 (Gottschalk)—Replacing the invalid Nebraska Installment Sales Act of 1959.

Under terms of the amended resolution, the study will be undertaken by an actuary with an appropriation of $3,000.

The 19 studies thus far approved will be undertaken by separate committees. Chairmen and members will be named next week.

Ten studies were endorsed Monday, and an inquiry into a second vocational technical school was approved early in the session.

GOP Sets United Bid For Governor

A meeting here Monday between Republican leaders and GOP state senators resulted in an agreement by all segments of the party to make a unified effort to recapture the governor's post next year.

This report was made by Robert Denney of Fairbury, State Republican chairman.

Attending the meeting were two potential GOP gubernatorial candidates — Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings and Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney—in addition to former governors Robert Crosby of Lincoln and Val Peterson of Hastings.

Sen. Eugene Mahoney said no mention was made of a party favorite for the governorship "or any other political race."

He said the meeting revolved around generalities about a partisan legislature and solidification of the party rather than specific prospects for the governorship chair.

But one legislator, who asked his name not be used, said some plugs for Burney and Marvel were made informally.

Denney said there was agreement that more organizational work needs to be done at the county level and that able county chairmen must be selected throughout the state.

REVISION IN LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE RULES ASKED

The plan is an alternative to a proposal submitted earlier by Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha.

Both proposals were assigned to the Rules Committee for a recommendation.

Largely at issue is the relative strength of Omaha and Douglas County on the

Mu Phi Epsilon Plans Meeting

Meeting in Lincoln this week are national officers of Mu Phi Epsilon music fraternity for women, who are gathered at the Nebraska Center to make plans for the organization's biennial convention in 1964. Miss Janese Ridell of Lincoln, national president of Mu Phi Epsilon, has announced that the convention will be held in Lincoln next summer. Serving as general chairman for the convention will be Mrs. E. Sheldon Hall of Lincoln.

Mrs. Van E. Fiser, executive secretary-treasurer, both of Wichita, Kan.; Mrs. Louis H. Sila, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, third vice president; Miss Virginia Hoogenakker, Jackson, Miss., fifth vice president; and Mrs. Fred Shafe, Detroit, Mich., fourth vice president.

On Friday, the members of the national council will be honored at a luncheon at the Lincoln Country Club for which the members of the Mu Phi Epsilon Lincoln alumnae will be hostesses.

Kachmar, who were members of the team that won the national women's team championship two years in succession in 1960 and 1961, and who have each also scored other notable victories.

Mrs. Hayden became declarer at six spades and Mrs. Kachmar led the jack of hearts, an obvious singleton. Mrs. Hayden took the heart with the ace and then had to solve the problem of which way to take the trump finesse.

She guessed correctly by playing low to the jack, and then continued with the king, on which Mrs. Kachmar dropped the queen!

The method of scoring was board-a-match, where every trick made can be crucial. Faced with the possibility of making seven if the king of clubs was outside, and acting on the assumption that Mrs. Hayden cashed the ace of diamonds, ruffed a diamond, and then played a heart to the king, intending to draw the last trump and take a club finesse next.

But Mrs. Kachmar ruffed the heart, and the contract eventually went down one as a result of her falsecard in spades. Without the falsecard, there is no doubt that the declarer would have made the slam by drawing another round of trump and establishing the clubs.

Peculiarly enough, the hand turned out to be a tie, because, at the other table, the same contract was reached and defeated a trick when declarer took the trump finesse the wrong way.

Dear Abby

She Is Crazy—Like A Fox Is Crazy

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am "the other woman" in an affair. Joe and I are very much in love. We have gone together for four years and his wife has known it from the start. I have four small children and I love them. Believe it or not, I am a good mother. I never loved their father. He gave me a divorce so I could marry Joe. The problem is Joe's wife. She will not give him a divorce. He has tried everything to make her leave him. She has a job and can support herself. They have no children. She says she loves him no matter what. I have even told her all about us, but she said she doesn't mind sharing him with me. I think she must be crazy. Please, Abby, tell me what she is.

DEAR LOVED: Give up. This woman is crazy like a fox.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both under 30. We love children, but have none of our own as yet. We both work. As soon as we get home every evening, the neighborhood children start ringing our bell, wanting to "visit" us. We eat supper at 7:30 and some evenings we have as many as ten children sitting with us or standing around our table. Don't get me wrong, we love children, but not in groups of ten every evening. Maybe our mistake was in being too hospitable when we first moved in. How can we discourage these youngsters without reporting them to their parents and making enemies of our neighbors? Have you ever received a letter like this, or is there something wrong with us?

WANTING PRIVACY: The old saying, "If you don't want a friendly dog in your lap, don't pat him on the head" applies here. Tell your little visitors that you can't have them quite so often and suggest a "signal". If they see

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Please save me and "my" parishioners from further blunders. The wedding season is upon us again, and I would appreciate your printing an answer to this question: Is the minister's wife automatically invited to every wedding in her husband's church?

I have never attended a wedding as a guest unless I have been specifically invited. Yet many parishioners have told me afterwards that they "expected" me, and were very disappointed when I didn't show up.

MINISTER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: You, my dear, are correct. Nobody is "automatically" invited anywhere. If the Reverend and Mrs. So and So are expected to attend an invitation affair, they should be sent an invitation.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My wife claims she was MISS AMERICA

ICA of 1935. I would like to know if she really was. Can you tell me?

CURIOS

DEAR CURIOUS: If your wife was Henrietta Leaver of Pittsburgh, "The Million Dollar Baby from the Five-and-Ten Cent Store," she was indeed Miss America of 1935. Otherwise, she hasn't been a beautiful leg to stand on.

fendants because the "big boys" can afford to pay. The public should keep two things in mind: (1) The moral issue is the same whether the victim is rich or poor. (2) The "little man" will eventually pick up the tab, either in higher consumer costs or in increased insurance rates.

Jancke Heads Health Board; Mosquito Notices Sent Out

Walter Jancke was elected president of the City-County Health Board Tuesday, replacing Val Kleppinger at the annual reorganization meeting.

Mrs. Harry C. Dunrow, formerly secretary, was elected vice-president of the board and a new member, Dr. Robert Chab, Jancke dentist, was made secretary. J. B. Dresselhaus is the other new member on the board.

The new board approved expenditures of $14,837.70 for June, okayed the purchase of an air conditioner for the clinic records room, and approved reappointment of two Health Department employees who, being over 65 years old, must have their job status passed on each year.

$198,707 Spent

Dr. George R. Underwood, health director told the board that department expenditures for the year ending June 30 totaled $198,707.35, or 94% of the budget of $210,544.38. The excess, he said, was due to the difficulty of keeping certain jobs filled. In the year ending June 30, 1962, the department also spent only 94% of its budget — $191,876.34 of an authorized $202,961.36. Savings on salaries was also the cause of that excess, Dr. Underwood reported then.

The department's budget for the year ending June 30, 1964, is $207,835.63, some $2,700 less than last year's. It was approved June 11 by the board.

'Reasonable Time'

Dr. Underwood told the board that notices have gone out to property owners whose land has been found to have mosquitoes breeding on it. Now the landowners have "a reasonable time" to take action to stop the breeding.

However, he indicated, a major problem is determining how long a time is "reasonable." After a "reasonable" time, he said, the city or county can order the necessary work done and charge it to the property owner.

What is needed, Dr. Underwood said, is for the city or county to appropriate money for such use. The money could be gotten back from the property owners involved if the courts agreed that the "reasonable time" waiting period between notification and action had been met.

"If we have this other ordinance we'll be able to close everything in town at 1 a.m. and avoid all (traffic) trouble," said Robert Knape, board member and owner of a West Lincoln tavern.

Board member Wayne Siegrist said a basic consideration of fairness also prompted the decision. With the extended tavern provision and the new bottle club legislation, bar closing regulations would be more equal.

West Lincoln taverns are the Royal Grove, 315 2nd; Robbie's Happy Corner Tavern, 1024 Grand; Top Hat Tavern, 722 Grand; and Bali Hi, 1011 2nd.

Board member Knape owns Robbie's Happy Corner Tavern.

The only bottle club in the village is the Esquire Club, 960 Grand. Board chairman James Francke manages the club.

'Argument Area'

The Safari Club, Grand and Morgan, is located in what Siegrist described as the "argument area" outside settled West Lincoln jurisdiction. The club has filed a District Court suit challenging the village's annexation of its property.

Members said that adoption of the proposed ordinance would eliminate all village traffic from tavern to club by 1 a.m.

Nebraska Crash Victims Attended Kin's Funeral Just Before Tragedy

Fergus Falls, Minn. (UPI)—"Good bye and good luck," Evan Glende told the 4 Nebraskans as they left his funeral home.

They had come several hundred miles for the funeral of their nephew and cousin who died in a veterans hospital and who had few other relatives.

"They had been gone only a few minutes when I got a call to come out and get the bodies," said Glende of the Glende-Johnson Funeral Home.

The 4—a mother and her son, a father and his son—were killed 12 miles west of Newcastle, died a few hours later at a Breckenridge, Minn. hospital.

Glende said the 4 Nebraskans arrived here Sunday night for the funeral of Woodward who had died in a Farago, N.D., veterans hospital. His only other relative was a stepmother who lives here.

The visitors stayed at a hotel and spent the morning with the stepmother. They all attended the 2 p.m. services in the funeral chapel and the burial which followed.

After checking out at the hotel, they returned to the funeral home "to express their thanks and to say good bye," Glende said. "Then they started home."

Brooks was with a party of 7 harvest workers. He and 20-year-old Al Walker of Dallas, Tex., decided to try and swim across a bay but turned back at the halfway mark.

Brooks sank while trying to get back to shore and 18-year-old Jerry West of Eldorado, Okla., swam out to rescue Walker. Fireman recovered Brook's body.

5-Year Suspended Sentence Given To Ex-Nebraskan

Orleans, France (UPI)—Mrs. Phyllis Howells Grimm, 21, formerly of Omaha, received a 5-year suspended sentence by a French court Tuesday for stabbing her husband, U.S. Army Sgt. Donald Grimm, 24, last Jan. 2.

Scores of persons watched Mrs. Grimm arrive at the Loiret Assize Court for the trial. She is the mother of 3 children, one of them born after Grimm's death.

According to the police reconstruction of the case, Sgt. and Mrs. Grimm returned home last Jan. 2 after a night of drinking at the American enlisted men's club at Maisons Fort, south of here.

They were accompanied by another American soldier, Sgt. Charles Grimes, and Mrs. Beverly Holcutt, a neighbor. The four continued drinking and started dancing.

Mrs. Grimm, whose address was listed as Iowa Falls, Iowa, cut up chicken for them to eat. Then Grimm, who had to go back on duty at 4 a.m., started getting into his uniform.

Grimm reportedly became enraged at some remarks by his wife and hit her. In turn, police said, she grabbed the knife she had cut the chicken with and stabbed him in the chest, cutting a pulmonary artery.

After Grimes' car ran off the road on a curve while Grimm was being rushed to a hospital, the American sergeant died in an ambulance which picked him up at the scene of the automobile accident.

Dixie School Problem May Benefit Nebraska

By DICK STUCKEY
Star Staff Writer

Racial turmoil in southern school systems may result in a shot in the arm for Nebraska teaching forces.

At least one Lincoln teacher placement agency has reported two applications from Virginia teachers. An up-in-the-air job situation stemming from forced school integration there has prompted the moves to Nebraska.

One of the welcome pair, Mrs. Charles D. Woltemath, is a former Nebraska resident who received her education here.

For several years school officials have pointed to the cause-for-alarm exodus of Nebraska-bred and read teachers to greener pastures.

Wanderers Returning?

The question in school minds now is whether the wanderers might be returning.

Mrs. Woltemath, a secondary school English teacher, explained that the Virginia state legislature "passed the buck" to Virginia counties by giving all educational responsibility to the latter.

Complicated and varying county approaches to school system management have created a situation in which "teachers just don't know what they're going to do," Mrs. Woltemath said.

Although integration is proceeding in many areas, she explained, substituting private schools for public school structures puts many teacher positions in doubt.

Not all return to their home state did so and her family, however. Also migrating from the topsy-turvy Virginia school structure is John Mentzer, a young high school instructor with a master's degree.

Mentzer is originally from Salt Lake City. He taught in Halifax, Va. And he told the Lincoln placement agency he came to the Midwest because he always had wished to teach here.

Mentzer's master's degree was earning him $3,900 a year in Virginia.

Mentzer, a married University of Utah graduate, said he saw the coming crumble of the public school system when the compulsory education law was repealed, and although he was offered a position, he decided not to remain in Virginia.

Nebraska Education Commissioner Dr. Floyd Miller said Tuesday that as of yet, no big migration or return of teachers was apparent.

"But this could be the start of something big," he said.

Cape Canaveral, Fla. (UPI)—With top military leaders aboard as observers, the giant nuclear submarine Lafayette launched two Polaris missiles Tuesday from beneath the surface of the Atlantic Ocean.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara boarded the Lafayette for the test, along with Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth.

Under a long-time policy barring public information about submarine firings, the Defense Department declined to release any details of the flights.

Jancke Heads Health Board; Mosquito Notices Sent Out

Walter Jancke was elected president of the City-County Health Board Tuesday, replacing Val Kleppinger at the annual reorganization meeting.

Mrs. Harvey C. Damrow, formerly secretary, was elected vice president of the board and a new member, Dr. Robert Chab, dentist, was made secretary.

J. B. Dresselhaus is the $210,544.38. The excess, he other new member on the board.

The new board approved expenditures of $14,883.70 for June, okayed the purchase of an air conditioner for the clinic records room, and approved reappointment of two Health Department employees who, being over 65 years old, must have their job status passed on each year.

$198,707 Spent

Dr. George R. Underwood, health director told the board that department expenditures for the year ending June 30 totaled $198,707.35, or 94% of the budget of each time one-half hour earlier.

Traffic Danger

Board members cited an existing traffic danger in the present hours. When taverns close, they pointed out, cars race through the village to get to bottle clubs remaining open.

The passage of LB21, to take effect Aug. 1, will force bottle clubs to also close at 1 a.m.

"If we have this other ordinance we'll be able to close everything in town at 1 a.m. and avoid all (traffic) trouble," said Robert Knape, board member and owner of a West Lincoln tavern.

Board member Wayne Siegrist said a basic consideration of fairness also prompted the decision. With the extended tavern provision and the new bottle club legislation, bars closing regulations would be more equal.

West Lincoln taverns are the Royal Grove, 315 2nd; Robbie's Happy Corner Tavern, 1024 Grand; Top Hat Tavern, 722 Grand; and Bali Ha'i, 1011 2nd.

Board member Knape owns Robbie's Happy Corner Tavern.

The only bottle club in the village is the Esquire Club, 960 Grand. Board chairman, James Francke manages the club.

'Argument Area'

The Safari Club, Grand and Morgan, is located in what Siegrist described as the "argument area" outside settled West Lincoln jurisdiction. The club has filed a District Court suit challenging the village's annexation of its property.

Members said that adoption of the proposed ordinance would eliminate all village traffic from tavern to club by 1 a.m.

Henry Goebel, who has taught at Irving Junior High for 25 years, assumed the DCT presidency at the 101st annual meeting in Detroit, Mich.

Goebel will be on leave from his teaching position during the 1963-64 school year to carry out duties of his office in the DCT, largest unit of the 860,000-member NEA.

Goebel has served as vice president and president of the Lincoln Teachers Association, and as president of District I of the Nebraska State Education Association. He has also held several high offices in NEA committees and departments.

Cronin Happy With Just One All-Star Game

Boston (P) — American League President Joe Cronin is delighted there is just one All-Star baseball game again and certain a right-handed pitcher will start the July 9 classic at Cleveland.

Cronin announced the complete A. L. squad Tuesday including the 7-man pitching staff handpicked by Manager Ralph Houk of the defending world champion New York Yankees.

Speculation centers around young Jim Bouton of the Yankees or veteran Jim Bunning of Detroit as the probable starting pitcher who will be named Monday along with the batting order. Baltimore's Steve Barber and Chicago's Juan Pizarro were the only southpaws selected.

The rest of the pitchers include Boston bullpen whiz Dick Radatz, Ken McBride of Los Angeles and Cleveland's Jim Grant.

Absentees

Bigest surprise omissions from the team include New York lefty Whitey Ford (12-3), Red Sox righthander Bill Monbouquette (11-5) and Yankee outfielder Roger Maris (17 homers).

"One All-Star game clearly distinguishes this as The Game," Cronin said commenting on the return to a single inter-league contest. There had been two a year, 1959 through last season.

"Two All-Star games lend themselves to charges of commercialism," Cronin added. "And if one team wins the first game and the other the second, then why not 3 All-Star games?

"No, one game is the way to play it. And we're going to win the one coming up."

Still Leads

Including the A.L.'s 9-4 decision in the second contest a year ago, the junior circuit has captured only two of the last 8 though it still leads the over-all competition 17-15.

"Houk hasn't said a word to me about his starting pitcher but it will definitely be a right-hander," Cronin said after glancing at a list of National League starters. Only Bill White and Ed Bailey swing from the left side.

Except for Mickey Mantle — voted to the center field berth but unable to play because of a broken foot—the 8 other starters will be those picked by their fellow players.

Al Kaline and triple-crown leader Leon Wagner start in the outfield with Albie Pearson, the mighty mite from Los Angeles elevated to Martin's vacated spot. Earl Battey will start behind the plate.

Reading round the infield from first to 3rd are Yankee Joe Pepitone, senior American League selectee Nellie Fox of Chicago, Zoilo Ver-salles and Frank Malzone.

Picked Siebern

Houk followed the alternates voted by the players except at first base, where he picked Kansas City's Norm Siebern instead of Boston's Dick Stuart. He added Harmon Killebrew of the Twins and his own Tom Tresh to the outfield corps.

Cronin explained there has to be at least one player from every club, explaining Houk's selection of a 3rd catcher—Don Leppert of Washington.

The remainder of the squad: outfielders Bob Allison, Minnesotta, and Carl Yastrzemski, Boston; catcher Elston Howard, New York; second baseman Bobby Richardson, New York; shortstop Luis Apacito and 3rd baseman, Brooks Robinson, Baltimore.

Dodgers Edge Cardinals, 1-0 DRYSDALE SPINS 5-HITTER

Los Angeles (P)—The Los Angeles Dodgers took over the National League lead from St. Louis Tuesday night, beating the Cardinals 1-0 on Ron Fairly's run-producing single and the five-hit pitching of Don Drysdale.

The triumph left the Dodgers, who haven't occupied the top spot since June 13, one-half game in front of the Cardinals.

The Dodgers scored their lone run off Curt Simmons in the 7th inning when Frank Howard singled, reached second on Bill Skowron's infield out and scored on Fairly's single.

Drysdale was in serious trouble only once as he brought his record to 10-9 before a crowd of 39,824.

In the 8th, Tim McCarver singled for the Cards' 3rd hit. Pinch hitter Stan Musial then singled to center, sending McCarver to 3rd, but Julian Javier popped foul for the inning ending out.

In the 9th, George Altman led off with a single to left and stole second. He got to 3rd when Bill White grounded out, but Drysdale struck out Ken Boyer for the final out of the game.

Simmons, now 7-4, scattered 6 hits and struck out 7.

Optimists Crack GI Twice; Hand Gerry's Loop Lead

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

The Lincoln Optimists jolted Grand Island from atop the Cornhusker Legion League standings at Sherman Field Tuesday night, taking a twin bill by scores of 6-5 and 10-7.

The Optimists were mired in 7th place with a 3-6 record prior to their startling twin killing of the previously unbeaten Grand Island club.

The win boosts Lincoln Gerry's (10-1) into the lead ahead of Grand Island and Hastings, both 9-2.

Highlights

Strong pitching performances and come-from-behind rallies were highlights of each game.

Grand Island jumped to a 5-0 lead in the first inning of the opener, chasing starter Tom Ochsner.

John Laird came on to retire the side in the first and blanked the heavy-hitting visitors the rest of the way on 3 scattered singles.

Meanwhile the Optimists came up with some clutch hitting to get 4 runs in the second and two more in the 5th.

Chuck Turek and Greg Kemist each stroked two-run singles with two out in the second.

Bunt And Run

The winners capitalized on his inexperience and used a bunt and run game to shake up the Grand Island defense.

Again Grand Island jumped off to a 5-0 lead.

The Optimists got on the scoreboard in the second as Tyrrell scampered home on a passed ball.

Four more runs in the 3rd knotted the count at 5-5 and a pair of unearned tallies in the 4th gave the Optimists a 7-5 lead.

Motz Triples

They added frosting to the cake with a 3-run spree in the 6th, highlighted by Jerry Motz' two-run triple.

Floyd Jones, winless in 3

games prior to Tuesday night, settled down after a shaky start and blanked the Grand Island club for 4 innings before giving up two harmless runs in the top of the 7th.

Only two of the 7 runs he allowed were earned. He walked 3 and struck out 8.

Brown, who last week bested Gerry's Bob Hergenreder in a sparkling mound duel, walked 3 and fanned 12.

Brown was the victim of shoddy support as his mates made 7 errors.

Art Glur, who pitched the opener, started the second game behind the plate and couldn't handle the hard-throwing right-hander.

Platoon System Keeping Yanks On Top

By STEVE SNIDER

New York (UPI) — Casey Stengel's old "platoon system" still is serving the New York Yankees well.

Casey, when he had the Yankees, platooned 'em on purpose.

Manager Ralph Houk is doing it because he has to. Injuries and stuff like that, you know.

But regardless of the motives of those two managers, whose basic theories of baseball are radically different, the results are the same for the Yankees. They continue to hold their own with the rest of the league while numerous "bodies" move in and out of the lineup.

One of the big "outs" right now is Most Valuable Mickey Mantle, hobbling on a foot with a fractured bone in it. By rights, the Yanks should have folded when Mickey went out of action. They frequently have in the past, but not this time.

"Fortunately," says Houk, "this is the best Yankee bench I've ever had."

Different Tactics

Houk, in his 3rd year as Yankee manager and with two world championships to show for his first two tries, employs his bench far differently than Casey did in his 12 great years with the bombers.

Casey juggled his lineups frequently, seemingly at a whim though he could explain by the hour what percentages were involved each time he made a shift.

However, the first thing Houk did when he became manager was to junk the platoon system.

Cleveland (AP) — Boston's Dave Morehead, a 19-year-old infielder moved to grab the grounder, hit a double and bounded high over his head for the Indians' first hit.

The only other hit off Morehead was a leadoff 9th inning homer by pinch hitter John Romano, only put back on the active list hours before the game.

Morehead had a perfect game for 6 2-3 innings, with Carl Yastrzemski making a leaping catch of Gene Green's long fly in the 6th inning to protect his effort. Then, with two out in the 7th, Willie Kirkland worked the count to 3-2, fouled a pitch off and walked to become the first Cleveland base runner.

The victory squared Morehead's record at 5-5.

The Red Sox got Morehead all the runs he needed with a two-run spurt in the second inning against Barry Latman. 5-4. Dick Stuart got things started with a walk and Luis Clinton singled before Morehead singled up the middle for the first run. Schilling's single got another home.

Allison, Hall Spark Twins Into Second

BLAST TIGERS, 7-4

Detroit (P)—The rampaging Minnesota Twins, with Bob Allison and Jim Hall whacking towering homers, recorded their 8th straight victory and took over second place in the American League Tuesday night by defeating Detroit 7-4.

Dick Stigman was the winner with 9th inning help from Bill Dailey, the Twins' relief specialist, who got pinch-hitter Gates Brown to line into a double-play on the first pitch and end the game.

Allison cracked his 20th homer with a runner on base as the Twins scored 3 times and broke a 1-1 tie in the 3rd. Hall drove a 3-run home 430 feet into the upper center field seats in the 6th.

Al Kaline hit his 17th homer for Detroit and Bill Bruton his 4th. Rocky Colavito drove in the two other Tiger runs with a bases loaded walk and a sacrifice fly.

The governor also signed 138 other pieces of legislation on April 17 and thereafter.

Miami (UPI) — A prospective juror asked circuit Judge Robert Anderson if he could be excused because "I've just had an operation and shouldn't sit too long at a time."

Judge Anderson asked, "Let's see your subpoena."

The prospective juror unbuttoned his belt and exposed scar before bailiffs could stop him and explain what the judge wanted to see.

She will work on her master's degree in microbiology at the University of Nebraska.

Pearson Easily Survives Motion Of No-Confidence

Ottawa (UPI) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's minority government Tuesday night easily survived another motion of no confidence. The small Social Credit Party again helped the Liberals beat back the opposition Conservative Party attack. The vote was 115-75.

Kennedy said he felt the legislation should be approached on a bipartisan basis. Negroes would be grateful for the support of either Republicans or Democrats, he said.

The administration has repeatedly conceded it needs Republican support to pass the civil rights program over southern opposition.

Opposed were 96 Liberals, 18 Social Crediters and a New Democrat.

RFK: Courts Won't Give Service Right Without Law

Washington (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said Tuesday "there is a serious question" whether Negroes or other Americans have constitutional right to be served in a private establishment which has no connection with the federal, state or local government.

The courts have never held there is such a right, he said, but promptly added:

"Congress clearly has the authority under the Constitution to confer such a right."

Kennedy, appearing for the second day before the Senate Commerce Committee, said the legislation it is considering would do just that: confer the right to such service.

Key Bill

The committee is considering the key plank of the administration's civil rights program — a bill to ban racial discrimination by owners of stores, restaurants, theaters and other business establishments catering to the public. The legislation would apply to interstate commerce.

Sen. John O. Pastore, (D-R.I.) contended Americans do have a constitutional right to service in private places and the main purpose of the pending legislation is to put the weight of the federal government behind its enforcement.

Kennedy, in not agreeing with him fully, conceded the question might possibly go to the Supreme Court in the next term.

Political skirmishing broke out during the hearing, with Sens. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., serving notice they would not offer any amendments to the public accommodations bill.

Both contended it is up to the Democratic majority to propose any perfecting amendments because they didn't want to be accused of crippling or watering down its provisions. There are 12 Democrats and 5 Republicans on the committee.

Irritated

Prouty, who said he expects to vote for the bill, expressed irritation over newspaper columnists and others who contend the Republicans will be blamed if the civil rights legislation fails.

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., the committee chairman, said "every senator on this committee has a responsibility to suggest amendments he thinks are necessary . . ." Republicans, he said, had offered amendments to every bill for the last 10 years and should not try to "pass the buck" now.

Kennedy said he felt the legislation should be approached on a bipartisan basis. Negroes would be grateful for the support of either Republicans or Democrats, he said.

The administration has repeatedly conceded it needs Republican support to pass the civil rights program over southern opposition.

"We defy any thinking individual to find a proper and legal right for the discrimination in this law," he told the court.

Kuhn also pointed out that the Sunday Closing Act was not signed by Gov. John Anderson until April 17, the 14th.

Kansas Sunday Closing Law Under Attack From Grocers

Wichita, Kan. (UPI) — Attorneys representing a group of independent grocers attacked Kansas' two-day-old Sunday closing law Tuesday as discriminatory and unconstitutional.

In a hearing before Sedgewick County District Judge James J. Noone, the attorneys set forth a 12-point argument in an attempt to enjoin the state attorney general and Sedgewick county attorney from enforcing the law.

The law, passed by the 1963 Legislature, became effective Monday.

The main spokesman for the Independent Grocers Association, attorney H. R. Kuhn of Wichita, centered his attack on a section of the law that permits small, family operated grocery stores with limited floor space and stock to remain open on Sundays.

"Our clients would be prohibited from selling items which smaller grocery stores could continue to sell on Sundays," Kuhn said.

"In other words, the general public can buy everything on July 7 that they bought last Sunday. The only difference is that they will have to seek out the favored merchant."

"We defy any thinking individual to find a proper and legal right for the discrimination in this law," he told the court.

Stock Market Gain Biggest In 3 Months

New York (UPI) — Stock market prices met support at the anticipated level and the market rallied smartly Tuesday, posting the biggest gain in three months. Trading was relatively slack.

Volume was 3.54 million shares compared with 3.38 million Monday, both sub-average for the year and reflecting no particular conviction.

The important fact about Tuesday's performance was that stocks were bought just above where they touched the 700 level the day before. That is significant because it is a point where many had been heralded as a support line where money could be expected to buy the market.

The Dow Jones average rose 7.30 to 709.84.

There was no radical change in the news background to account for more eager buying. Stocks, brokers said, but merely a feeling that at that level were attractive if the market can logically be expected to mount a further advance. The market is up 1.4% so far this year.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 2.4 to 271.6 with industrials up 3.4, retail up 1.4, and utilities up 1.1.

It was the biggest single March 4

Stock Market Gain Biggest In 3 Months

New York (P) — Stock market prices met support at the anticipated level and the market rallied smartly Tuesday, posting the biggest gain in three months. Trading was relatively slack.

Volume was 3,54 million shares compared with 3,38 million Monday, both sub-average for the year and reflecting no particular conviction.

The important fact about Tuesday's performance was that stocks were bought when they touched the 700 mark in the Dow Jones average, an area which had been heralded as a support line where money could be expected to come into the market.

The Dow Jones closed up 7.59 to 709.94.

There was no radical change in the news background to account for more eager buying of stocks, brokers said, but merely a feeling that the market was attractive if the market can be logically expected to mount another attack on its present basis, a point more to the upside.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 2.4 to 271.6 with industrials up 3.6, rally up 1.4, and most others up .3.

It was the biggest gain since March 4.

France, Germany Put Treaty In Effect Early

Bonn, Germany (P)—France and West Germany put their historic treaty of cooperation into effect ahead of schedule Tuesday to make sure that the forthcoming visit of President De Gaulle will come under its provisions.

The treaty marks the formal beginning of close consultations between the two neighboring countries who have battled each other in 3 wars over the past 100 years.

De Gaulle's visit here Thursday and Friday has been termed by the West German government a model for future meetings between representatives of the two countries.

The treaty of cooperation calls for at least two meetings between the French president and the West German chancellor. The treaty was signed Tuesday to make certain this week's visit by De Gaulle would come under this provision.

West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroder and French Ambassador Roland de Margerie went through the concluding formalities that were initially scheduled for the end of this week during a year between the De Gaulle visit.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and De Gaulle drew up the final draft of the treaty and signed it in Paris on Jan. 22. It was approved by the Bundestag May 16 and by the Bundesrat May 31.

The French Parliament gave its approval last month. In general, the treaty aims at meshing the two countries closer together through top-level political meetings and people-to-people contacts. The chiefs of staff are to meet at least once every two months, and the defense, foreign and cultural ministers at least once every 3 months.

Blast Sets Off Garage, Tavern Fire

At DuBois

DUBOIS (P)—A gas tank explosion at the A-C Garage started a fire Tuesday that destroyed the garage and the Trace Tavern and Cafe and damaged the Hoffman grocery store and the DuBois State Bank.

R. F. Siske, DuBois fire chief, said volunteer workers and fire departments from Pomeroy, City, Humboldt, Tipton Rock and from Seneca and Bern, Kan., joined in battling the blaze.

When the gas tank exploded, Arnold Chauza, garage owner, was loading a truck. Chauza was burned on the arms when he leaped through the flames to safety.

Destroyed at the garage was about $3,000 in new tires, storage tanks and equipment, a new auto, and 4 other vehicles. The tavern was a complete loss, said Mrs. Lee Tracek, wife of the owner.

Loss High

During the battle against the blaze, supplies were taken from the Hoffman grocery and Mrs. Freda Hoffman later continued business in front of her store, at a garage across the street and at another store.

It was estimated that total damage may run as high as $100,000.

France, Germany Put Treaty In Effect Early

Bonn, Germany (P)—France and West Germany put their historic treaty of cooperation into effect head of schedule Tuesday to make sure that the forthcoming visit of President De Gaulle will come under its provisions.

The treaty marks the formal beginning of close consultations between the two neighboring countries who battled each other in 3 wars over the past 100 years.

De Gaulle's visit here Thursday and Friday has been termed by the West German government a model for future meetings between representatives of the two countries.

The treaty of cooperation calls for at least two meetings between French president and the West German chancellor. The treaty was signed Tuesday to make certain this week's visit by De Gaulle would come under this provision.

West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroder and French Ambassador Roland de Margerie went through the concluding formalities that were initially scheduled for the end of this week during a year between the visits of De Gaulle.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and De Gaulle drew up the final draft of the treaty and signed it in Paris on Jan. 22. It was approved by the Bundestag May 16 and by the Bundesrat May 31.

The French Parliament gave its approval last month.

In general, the treaty aims at meshing the two countries

Accident Involves

8 Vehicles; Only

2 Persons Hurt

Ogallala (P)—Eight vehicles from 7 different states, carrying 23 persons, were involved in a single accident Tuesday, but only one person was hospitalized and a second was treated at a hospital and dismissed.

State Patrolman Gene Morrissey of Ogallala said 7 westbound cars were halted at a highway project on U.S. 30 about 11½ miles west of Ogallala, when a truck carrying a 22-ton load plowed into the rear of the line.

Morrissey said the truck driver, Larry T. Steinbecker, 20, of Greeley, Colo., said he attempted to stop his truck, and when he found he could not do so he attempted to swerve to the right, but his truck went out of control.

Mrs. Arline B. Striegel of Anderson, Calif., riding in a car driven by her daughter, Mrs. Bonnie E. Ellis, 28, of Empire, Ore., was hospitalized. Her son Steven, 10, was treated for injuries and released. The Ellis car, 3rd from the rear of the line, was struck in the right rear by the truck.

Other cars in the line were from Idaho, Pennsylvania, Wyoming, New York, and South Dakota.

10 Killed At Aswan

Cairo (P)—Ten persons were killed and 6 injured in an accidental explosion at Aswan High Dam, it was learned Tuesday. Three persons were missing.

Creation of ETV Commission OK'd

The bill establishing a Nebraska Educational Television Commission to direct and promote the creation and operation of an ETV network in the state was passed 33-7 on final reading in the State Legislature Tuesday.

The measure, LB667, was introduced by Sens. Richard D. Marvel of Hastings, Fern Orme of Lincoln and George C. Gerdes of Alliance.

The bill is a companion to LB666, which creates the ETV network and appropriates $600,000 of general fund money to finance the project during the next two years.

LB666 awaits final passage. Under LB667, the 9 member commission will include the state education commissioner, the chancellor of the University of Nebraska, the coordinator of the state teachers colleges, a member of the Nebraska Council for Educational Television, a representative of private educational institutions in the state, one member from school boards of each of Class 1, 3, 4 and 5 school districts. Appointments where required would be made by the governor.

The commission would serve as the agency in charge of ETV in the state.

One of its incidental functions would be "to make certain that such (ETV) facilities are not used for any purpose which is contrary to the Constitution of the United States or the state of Nebraska, or for broadcasting propaganda, or attempting to influence legislation."

The list of bills passed Tuesday:

LB667 (Marvel, Orme, Gerdes)—Creating a Nebraska Educational Television Commission to direct and promote educational television in the state. (LB666)
LB727 (Fleming, Maher, Skarda)—Providing a pension system for paid personnel in the state government.
LB730 (Fleming, Maher, Skarda)—Requirement that a rate of the people must precede adoption of a new state plan. (LB666)
LB731 (McGinley, Gerdes)—Levying a $1 fee in criminal actions in court for the benefit of the Nebraska Retirement Fund. (LB666)
LB732 (Fleming)—Extending from 10 to 15 years the period for which distinct paving bonds may be issued in several cities and villages. (LB666)
LB734 (Budget committee)—Appropriating money to pay state salaries during the new biennium. (LB666)

Substitute Time Sales Act Introduced

Nebraska Legislators voted 38-0 Tuesday to accept for introduction a bill replacing the invalid Nebraska Installment Sales act passed in 1959.

The new bill, LB811, was placed directly on general file without a public hearing or a suspension of the rules, voted 37-0.

Introduced by Sen. Fred O. Gottschalk of Columbus, LB811 re-enacts the 1959 act but removes from it the rate section which called for varying time price differentials on different types of merchandise. It was the rate section which the State Supreme Court last Friday held to be unconstitutional.

The rate section in the new bill set a uniform maximum time price differential of $15 per $100 per year, but provides also that a minimum time price differential of $15 may be charged on any retail installment contract.

Sen. Gottschalk told the Legislature that the legislation affects every one in the state of Nebraska, with continuation of time sales business in the balance. He said that "as of this morning," sales by that time.

The new bill is expected to receive its general file floor discussion Wednesday, assuming that printed copies of the bill are available to senators by that time.
